Two Women

By Associated Press
Chicago—Another ray of hope that one of the amazing last hour developments that saved him from death on the gallows last Friday would become tangible enough to prove his innocence during a seven day reprieve, had gone out for Russell Scott.

James M. Ball, a Detroit telegraph operator, who last Friday declared that he witnessed the shooting of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk, and that Russell Scott was innocent of the slaying, has admitted that the story was a romance concocted "for the sake of humanity."

SECOND BLOW

This was the second blow that Scott has received since his dramatic reprieve six weeks before he was to hang. The stay of execution was ordered by Governor Small when a telegram from Detroit purporting to be from Robert Scott, the condemned man's brother, confessing the murder was received. According to Russell's story, Robert Scott, also under indictment, did the shooting.

The sender of the telegram promised to surrender the next day, but nothing has developed. Scott's attorneys still are pinning hope for a commutation on affidavits they said they had from two unnamed women, declared to have been in the drug store at the time of the shooting. So far as known, no official action has been taken in the case.

FIX HIGH VALUATION ON MICHIGAN CENTRAL ROAD

Washington, D. C.—A valuation of $150,703,973, was tentatively fixed Monday by the Interstate Commerce commission on the property of the Michigan Central railroad, owned and used in transportation service on June 30, 1918. The total was far above the capitalization of the company on the same date, which was at par $71,475,943. Its book investment account was $89,422,450.

The Michigan Central is a unit in the New York Central system and the valuation applied to the buildings, equipment and terminals on 1,180 miles of line owned by the Michigan Central itself.

All figures are subject to further proceedings before the valuation is made final for the purpose of making rates.

FORMER GRAIN MAGNATE
PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH

By Associated Press
Chicago—E. W. Wagner, formerly one of the biggest figures in the Chicago grain trade, whose firm failed for millions a few years ago, plunged to death Monday from the fifteenth story of the Westminster building in the central business district.

The body dropped to the roof of the Monroe theatre. Mr. Wagner was about 60 years old.

The failure of E. W. Wagner and Co., Chicago, and New York brokers, was a sensation in financial circles.

The next convention will be held in Racine.

PRIMATE DIES

Cardinal Louis Nazaire Begin, primate of the Catholic church in Canada, died Sunday in Quebec after a week's illness. Cardinal Begin was the son of a humble farmer whose rise to the Sacred college of the Roman Catholic church was unprecedented in the history of Canada.

Quebec—The body of Cardinal Begin, archbishop of Quebec and primate of Canada, who died Sunday lay in state Monday in the chapel of the archbishop's palace.

Next Saturday the son of a humble farmer who became a prince of the Roman Catholic church will be buried in the crypt of the palace. The romantic rise of Louis Nazaire Cardinal Begin from the unpretentious surroundings of a Levis farm-house, where he was born, to membership in the Sacred college of the Roman Catholic church, is without parallel in the religious history of Canada. It is doubtful if the venerable prelate, when in youth he consecrated his life to the service of his church, ever dreamed of or hoped for the honors that were later to come to him.

While an able administrator of his archdiocese, Cardinal Begin attracted more attention by his strictness as an ecclesiastical disciplinarian and rigidly enforced the regulations of the Catholic church. Likewise, in his later years he was a sturdy and active antagonist of social modernism and a vigorous opponent of modern dancing and jazz. His stand against these was officially endorsed in Rome by an article in Osservatore Romano, the organ of the Vatican.

Weekend

By Associated Press
Chicago—The four hundredth death from automobile accidents in Chicago and vicinity since June 1, 1925, has been recorded, an increase of 22 per cent over the first 200 days of last year.

"Children to the number of 121 are included in the 400 dead," said Coroner Wolf. "More than two thirds of the victims were pedestrians."

Chicago's four hundredth death was one of nearly a score reported throughout the country over the weekend, while a number of persons were drowned.

Five autoists, including two children, were killed at a grade crossing at Brookfield, O. Three Illinois residents met death in Indiana accidents, while five deaths were reported at various points in Illinois. The Illinois fatal accidents included one each at Jacksonville, Alton, Princeton, Sheffield and Chicago.

Four Philadelphians were drowned at Ocean City, N. J., when two men and a girl went to the rescue of an old man. Drownings occurred at Mason City, Ill., and one near Chicago. The Sunday casualties brought the week's total of automobile deaths in 14 middle western states to 95, with several hundred injured. By states the list included, Ohio 28, Illinois 16, Michigan 15, Texas 8, Missouri and Minnesota 7 each, Indiana 4, North Dakota and Kansas three each, Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska and South Dakota one each.

Coolidge Sees Trouble
Ahead In Miners' Fight

By David Lawrence

Swampscott, Mass.—President Coolidge knows that there's trouble ahead both for him and the American people in the coal strike. But he also knows that there is very little he can do about it now, except worry. Until the strikers and operators actually fail to agree the president cannot very well intervene. Secretary of Labor Davis told Mr. Coolidge that and then departed for Europe, but he will be back before Sept. 1 when the strike is scheduled.

While the government in one sense is powerless to compel an agreement between miners and operators because there is no legal authority to prevent a strike, the president has by no means lost his power of public opinion, of which his predecessors availed themselves. The whole question is how to use the presidential influence.

WILL SUMMON CHIEFS
Unquestionably the first step will be to summon the leaders of the two factions for a parley with the president. His special representatives, Secretaries Davis and Hoover and probably John Hays Hammond who presided over the sessions of the government coal commission a year or more ago. Green Bay—James H. McGillan, Green Bay attorney, threw his hat in the ring as a candidate to be considered by the organization of Coolidge Republicans, functioning in the state, when it was announced that he had accepted the vacancy left in the senate by the late Senator Robert M. La Follette.

In a public statement issued Monday Mr. McGillan said:

"If I should be chosen by the Coolidge Republican organization in the state, I will be glad to make the contest."

"I believe this to be a most crucial time in the history of Wisconsin and the Republican party. I am of the opinion that a large majority of the voters in the state believe in, and desire to promote, the policies of President Calvin Coolidge."

"The public is not interested in the 'platform' of any candidate. The consequences are too vital to the nation and to the party for any man to be permitted to gratify his personal ambition. There is a choice to be made, but one platform, and that is that the candidate is committed to a wholehearted support of President Coolidge and his policies. On that platform I will permit my name to be used as a candidate for the consideration of the state and county Republican conventions."

not enter into the controversy until every effort is made to obtain a settlement by his representative.

One of the peculiarities of the situation is that a strike is expected by some observers to result in an economic benefit to both the miners and the operators, in that surplus supplies will be exhausted and the price of coal advanced, because of the shortage, all of which would mean more work for the miners and better pay. While it is true that the increased prices and better wages would be paid for by the public, the question now turns entirely on how much of an increase in cost the American people will stand.

PINCHOT AVERTED STRIKE
The visit to the summer White House of Senator Curtis, the Republican leader, afforded the executive an opportunity of going over the legislative situation with one who will be called upon to carry into effect proposals of importance.

Conferences with other congressional leaders during the summer are planned by the president, discussion with Senator Curtis constituting the first of a series that is expected to give definite shape to the administration's stand on a number of issues. Not only is Mr. Curtis the titular head of the Republican organization in the state but he is a high ranking member of the finance committee, which has jurisdiction of revenue and tariff legislation and is recognized as a spokesman for the agricultural interests.

While the president does not feel it would be necessary even should a crisis develop in the anthracite situation, to call congress into special session, he is expected to discuss this question with the Kansas senator, chiefly to determine what remedial legislation if any should be enacted.

U. S. REMITS CHINESE
$6,137,522 INDEMNITY

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—The balance of $6,137,522 due the United States from the Chinese government on Bover indemnity payments has been remitted by President Coolidge under congressional authority granted in May 1924.

The funds are to be employed for educational and similar purposes under direction of a board appointed by the Chinese government and composed of Chinese and American citizens.

Mr. Coolidge's executive order is expected here to have a beneficial effect in further demonstrating to the Chinese people the friendship of Washington.

The original amount due the United States was more than $24,000,000 but the total was reduced by act of congress to 13,635,492 in 1908.

IN COURT ROW

Clarence Darrow, chief of defense attorneys in the Scopes evolution trial, was ordered by Judge Raoulston to appear before the court Tuesday morning to show why contempt proceedings should not be instituted.

The judge named as grounds for the citation remarks of Mr. Darrow to the court Friday when the court excluded the testimony of scientific experts from the jury.

After the judge had read his statement, the case proceeded, the defense offering a certified copy of the governor's message to the legislature approving the bill. The state objected to the introduction of the document.

EXCLUDED MESSAGE
Judge Raoulston excluded the message. The defense also offered in evidence the text book of biology adopted by the state book commission.

Arthur G. Hays read what this book says of Charles Darwin. Mr. Hays said the purpose of the defense was to show the public policy of the state. The state again objected. Judge Raoulston ruled that the book might be filed "for the purpose of the trial."

The Chicago lawyer was directed to make $5,000 bond for his appearance to answer the citation Tuesday.

Last Friday, the judge said, "contempt was committed in this court." He quoted from the record Mr. Darrow's exchange with the court on the discussion after Judge Raoulston excluded expert testimony.

"This passion has had time to subside," the court has said. "Any action," the judge read, "I feel it is now time to speak."

"Men may become prominent, but they should never hold themselves superior to the law."

INSULT TO STATE
"He who would hurl contempt at my court, insults and outrages one of the greatest commonwealths in the country."

"I feel that further forbearance would cease to be a virtue."

The court received a guarantee of Mr. Darrow's surety, and the trial proceeded by efforts of the defense to introduce documentary evidence in the absence of the jury.

In announcing the contempt citation, Judge Raoulston read from the record of Friday's proceedings. Mr. Darrow frequently smiled and chuckled as the court read.

Part of the colloquy read by the judge in citing Mr. Darrow follows:

The court: Colonel, what is the purpose of cross-examination?

Mr. Darrow: The purpose of cross-examination is to be used on the trial. The court: Well, isn't an effort to ascertain the truth?

Mr. Darrow: No it is an effort to show prejudice. Nothing else. (Laughter.) Has there been any effort ascertain the truth in this case? Why not bring in the jury and let us prove it?

RENT 12 BOOTHS FOR APPLETON AT PRODUCTS SHOW

City Will Have Prominent Display in Connection With State Fair in August

Appleton has engaged a large and prominent block of floor space at the Wisconsin Products exposition in Milwaukee Aug. 21 to Sept. 5. The display of the industrial agricultural virtues of this locality, according to announcement made at a meeting of the industrial and transportation committee of the chamber of commerce Friday afternoon. Most of the booths were engaged eagerly by manufacturers when subcommittees of the above group called on them.

Practically every line of manufacturing here will be displayed in the booths. The exhibit this time will be of Appleton as a whole and not the individual effort of a few firms. It will not be necessary for each exhibitor to have a representative in charge as the chamber of commerce will have supervision over the entire project for the week the exposition is in progress.

GET TWELVE BOOTHS

Twelve booths with floor space of more than 1,200 feet have been engaged by the committee in the new manufacturers' building at the state fair grounds building in Milwaukee. The exposition is to be part of the state fair in line with the plan in this state to ally the industrial and agricultural interests closely. The booths are located just inside one of the main entrances where they are sure to attract attention. About 140 feet of aisle frontage will be available.

Each booth contains 100 square feet except the first two in the section; these have 165 square feet. Any manufacturers or other business houses that want space are asked to notify the chamber of commerce or Elmer H. Jennings, chairman of the industrial committee.

TRACTORS SEPARATE

Appleton's tractors will not be displayed with the city's exhibit because all agricultural machinery is given an outdoor section of its own. Almost everything else that is made here will be shown in the building, however.

This is the third annual Wisconsin Products exposition and is conducted by Wisconsin Manufacturers association. It usually was held in midwinter but with a suitable building now become a supplement to the state fair. Hours of display each day will be from 8 o'clock in the morning to 10 o'clock at night.

WILLIAM BOWS TO DOORN TOTS

Former Kaiser Described as Seeking to Win Children's Favor

Amsterdam—A picture of William Hohenzollern, the late German emperor, dressing in the latest fashion and seeking to win the good-will of the children of Doorn, is given by a Dutch journalist, Barteld H. Ibelings, who recently visited Doorn castle.

Another pastime of the former emperor is collecting photographs of the Prince of Wales, and he is also fond of cutting and pasting up pictures of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. He dresses most carefully, says Mr. Ibelings, and his suits are always of the latest cut. At the court, which William continues to hold, the same stiff ceremonial as obtained in Berlin days is observed.

One of the former emperor's chief ambitions is to become popular with the people, and especially the young folk of Doorn. He therefore often goes out personally to shop and addresses the town folk in their native Dutch dialect. He even deigns now to tip his hat pleasantly in greeting, whereas formerly he had everybody bowing to him.

AMERICA SHARES SPOIL OF NOTED OLD MANSION

London—The work of demolishing Devonshire House, for so many years the home of the Duke of Devonshire in Piccadilly, is nearing its last phase, and except the great marble staircase, practically everything worth preserving has been moved to a new home.

Two of the four famous urns have been sold to James Burden of Long Island and the other pair have gone to Sir Philip Sassoon's house at New Barnet. One of the great gateways also will go to New Barnet and the other entrance gates, with two lodges, have been shipped to the United States.

The Duke of Devonshire has retained many decorative features such as doorways and mantelpieces.

LEAVE THURSDAY FOR CUSTER MILITARY CAMP

Outagamie-co young men who have signed up for the 1925 course of the Citizens Military Training Camp at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., will leave Appleton Thursday for the camp, according to Alfred Bradford, county officer. The camp runs one month from July 23 to Aug. 21.

The basic course is for boys between the ages of 17-24. The red course is open to boys between the ages of 17-25; the white course, 18-28; blue course, 19-31. The three color courses require previous military training.

ONLY TWO HAVE CHANCE TO SPEED

Traffic on Highway 15 Was Too Thick Sunday to Permit Fast Driving

The past weekend was one of the most quiet for some time in the annals of Outagamie-co Speeders club, according to reports of the county motorcoops. Only two arrests on Sunday by Andrew Miller broke the quiet spell. Miller arrested J. Hartwell, Milwaukee, traveling at a speed of 48 miles an hour on highway 26 and E. Femal of Appleton, hitting 40 miles an hour on highway 76.

Traffic was so heavy on highway 15 Sunday that it was impossible to speed, according to Elmer Rohm, county motorcoop, who patrolled that highway. Strings of cars more than a half mile were prevalent and no car could attain a higher rate of speed than 20 miles an hour, Rohm said.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schuh, 1919 W. Elsie-st., have received word that their son Edwin Schuh, formerly of Appleton, has accepted a position with the New York Times at New York City.

500 DELEGATES AT LABOR MEET

State Convention of Labor Federation Opens Tuesday at Lake Geneva

Lake Geneva—Approximately 500 delegates from all sections of the state are expected here Tuesday to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor. Preliminary committee meetings prior to the opening of the convention were held by state officers the latter part of last week and Monday.

Morning and afternoon the convention will be largely taken up by matters pertaining to the business or organized labor, while the evening will be given over to recreation. Diversity of entertainment has been planned by those in charge.

On Wednesday afternoon, the delegates will take a boat trip around the lake to be followed in the evening by a parade and mass meeting, at which several prominent labor leaders will speak.

State conventions of the barbers and carpenters unions were held here Monday.

Mrs. Joseph Balza and daughter Marion returned Sunday from a several weeks' visit at Ladysmith and Chippewa Falls.

LAWRENCE MEN ARE UNHARMED IN WINDSTORM

Eight Singers Have Thrilling Time in Nebraska as Program Is Broken Up

Amusing yet thrilling experiences in the midst of a windstorm in Nebraska are recounted in a letter received here from the Eight Merry Minstrels, a company of Lawrence College Glee club members who are on a tour under auspices of the United Chautauqua company. Although the group was exposed to injury, all emerged safely. The young men are Harry Snyder, Gordon Schiffer, George Staley, Reynolds Challoner, Carl Engler, Palmer McConnell, Everett Roudsbush and Alden Behnke.

The letter written from Wynot, Neb., reads in part:

"Friday the thirteenth may be considered unlucky but there is a bunch of wandering minstrels traveling through Nebraska that has a great deal of faith in Monday, the thirteenth. They feel quite fortunate that they are still traversing terra firma instead of breezing their way to the nearby gates."

"FOLLOW THE SWALLOW"

"Twenty minutes after the program started, a few husky gusts of wind announced the approach of a windstorm. The audience seemed to think we were smarting with it. Someone yelled, 'Grab a telephone pole and hang on.' Three of the bunch groped their way to poles. Their black faces and coats and their yellow pants must have formed a grotesque picture. A suit of clothes sailed over them like a magic carpet and paper and clothes of all kinds were sailing by. A box two feet square passed within a few feet of our heads. We could just make out cars moving about without drivers, now trying to hold themselves against the wind and being moved on in spite of all their efforts. Small buildings toppling over and last but not least the tent. The canvas flapped twice. The third blast lifted the two center poles off the ground, pulled the stakes, broke the ropes and blew the tent clear of the stage and seats."

"In three minutes the dust was so dense that we could not see more than two or three yards ahead of us. It was stifling and choking us. Our eyes were smarting with it. WAIT IN JAIL FOR NEW JUDGE

Four Prisoners Hope Gov. Blaine Will Make Appointment Soon

At least one extra day of confinement in the county jail and probably more than that awaits Earl and Leo Wing and Herbert Peters, town of Maine, alleged burglars, as the result of the vacancy on the municipal court bench. The boys were arrested Monday evening July 6 by Sheriff P. G. Schwartz charged with looting the general merchandise store of Ben Mills at Leeman the week before. When they were arraigned before Fred V. Heinemann county judge, and acting municipal judge during the last illness of the late Judge A. M. Spencer, they were placed under $1,000 bond. Unable to pay the bond they were placed in the county jail and the preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday morning. However, no municipal judge was expected to be appointed by Gov. Blaine until at least Tuesday.

Another similar occurrence will take place on Wednesday if the new judge is still unappointed. George Anton and David Christjohn, Oneida Indians, charged with assault by William Gustman, have been in a cell in the jail for nearly two weeks. They were placed under $500 bond when arraigned before Judge Heinemann, but were unable to raise the money. Preliminary hearing in their case was set for Wednesday morning.

EASY TASK NOW TO STOP WATER

City Department Has Almost Every Shutoff Valve's Location on Record

There isn't much chance these days that Appleton water department would be unable to make a quick shutoff of water at any home, store, factory or other place where pipes might break and cause damage. The repair crews can locate each valve instantly as the result of charting which required several years. There are about 100 taps still to be found.

When the city purchased the waterworks plant here it was found that the shutoff valves on terraces were not on record. Anybody answering a call to stop the water service would be obliged to hunt, and if dirt or grass covered the box might not find it or would have to resort to digging. This condition was quite an annoyance so a systematic survey was started to find out where every valve was placed. Its exact location was determined and placed on record. Now a workman can go to the records, find out where the valve is supposed to be and by using a tape line from the location of the main and the lot lines can measure to the exact spot.

About 5,000 of these are recorded but there are some which never were found. No break ever may occur in the missing ones but the water crews have to be able to find these as time goes on. Everytime a missing valve is located it is added to the records.

Elbert Joyce and Eugene Pierce left for a hike to California Monday morning. They will go to Chicago, where they will visit Mr. Pierce's sister, Mrs. Charles Passmore, and from there to Omaha, Neb., and then west.

For Fords

Of all the products made by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), not one has met with a more enthusiastic reception than Polarine "F" for Fords. It fills a long-felt want; for it is a double-purpose oil:

It stops transmission noise effectively by building up on the drums a stable lubricating film which will not rub off under the scraping action of the bands.

It lubricates the engine thoroughly and causes it to operate quietly and efficiently.

Polarine "F" for Fords costs no more than a single-purpose oil. This feature is indicative and typical of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) ideals of service; i. e., to manufacture products of superior quality and to give to the public a maximum return of service for every penny expended.

Drain your crankcase every few hundred miles, thoroughly cleanse the motor with Polarine Flushing Oil, and refill with Polarine "F".

That's economy!

COUNTY OFFICES GET $10,000 IN FEES EACH YEAR

Special Service Charges Are Big Factors in Incomes of County Employees

Although most county officers are now operating on a salary basis, few of them are entirely divorced from the fee system. While fees are but a small item in the finances of some departments, the combined amount collected in fees by all departments totals upwards of $10,000.

The major portion of the fees collected does not find its way through the county treasurer's office, but is private income of the county officers, and for that reason, no accurate statement of the amount is available.

All appointive officers, with the exception of deputy sheriffs, and elective officers including the clerk, treasurer, district attorney, sheriff, clerk of court, judges, are paid on a salary basis. There are other elective officers, the register of deeds, surveyor and coroner receive no salary. The last mentioned officer receives no compensation at all except in an emergency such as assuming the sheriff's duties during such an one's incarceration. The surveyor is permitted to charge certain fees for his services, and the register of deeds' office is entirely self-sustaining by means of the fee system.

SALARY AND FEES

Formerly the sheriff's office was supported wholly by fees, but now the sheriff receives a straight salary for his work in handling criminal matters, and collects fees for his activities in civil actions. He also charges fees in criminal actions, but these are deducted from the costs annexed to fines, and the money is withheld in lieu of his salary and turned over to the county.

Fees the sheriff is permitted to charge are fixed by a statutory scale and vary according to the nature of the service performed. Service of a summons or an injunction would cost $1, with 50 cents extra for each additional defendant in the case. Serving of subpoenas on witnesses is charged for at the rate of 25 cents each. In the collection of funds on executions 5 per cent is allowed on the first 300, the rate increasing on greater amounts. Fees for the sale of real estate on judgments are $10 to $15. Attendance in court entitles the sheriff to a fee of $3 a day.

The largest amount of fees is collected by the register of deeds office for the reason that this office is made entirely dependent upon fees. Here, too, the office is governed by a scale fixed by statute. The amounts differ according to nature of the instrument and the number of folios recorded. Registering of deeds costs from 60 cents to $1, mortgages from 80 cents to $1.70, releases 50 cents, land contracts $1.40 to $1.80, plats $7 to $10.

COUNTY ABSTRACTOR

The annual income of this office amounts to $4,700 to $5,000 a year from which the register of deeds pays the salaries of his deputies. The register of deeds of this county also holds the office of county abstractor by appointment. The fees for this work is fixed by the county board of supervisors and amounts to 40 cents a transfer.

The county clerk is paid on a salary basis, but the state conservation commission allows him 10 per cent commission on the sale of hunting licenses which is considered an adjunct to his regular work. The state takes the remainder of the money and also all the money collected for deer tags and trapping tags. The clerk sells from 3,000 to 4,000 licenses a year at the rate of $1 a license. For the sale of marriage licenses the clerk is permitted to charge $1. Of this amount 50 cents goes to the county and 50 cents to the person who administered the oath of the applicant. The recipient is either the clerk or a notary public. The sale of marriage licenses is 300 to 400 a year.

Small fees are charged by the county treasurer on cancellations and redemption receipts, but the amount is turned over to the county. The fee is 30 cents for the first description and 5 cents for each one thereafter. The total amount collected in one year is about $2,000. The treasurer collects 2 per cent of fines in criminal cases for the county. Fees for issuing and certifying copies of county court records are allowed the county judges at the rate of 12 cents a folio and 25 cents for the certificate.

The county court also is entitled to $5 for an examination of an insane person, and work in connection with commitments to institutions. The examining physicians receive $4 for an examination and 10 cents a mile for traveling expenses in connection with a case. When a jury is required for any county court case the regular fee of $4 a day and mileage of 4 cents a mile is allowed for jurors, and witnesses are allowed $2.50 a day and 5 cents a mile for mileage. The expenses in insane cases are paid by the county.

Fees pocketed by the clerk of courts are only those in connection with civil actions. The state permits fees of 10 cents to $3 for filing and entering documents. Fees also are charged for work in criminal actions, but these go to the county and are deducted from the costs attached to fines. Fines and costs in the justice branch of municipal court amount to about $7,000 a year, and those of the upper branch of municipal court and the circuit court total about $1,500 a year. Costs alone amounted to $1,834.09 in the lower branch last year. der county ordinances go to the county and another portion to the arresting officer. Appleton police are required to turn over the officer's fees to the police pension fund. Fines imposed on the basis of city ordinances go to the city treasury, fines under county ordinances go to the county and fines under statutes go to the state with the exception of 2 per cent. Jurors and witnesses are

NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS ARE SOUGHT BY POLICE

Two criminals at large in Wisconsin are sought by the detective bureau of Wisconsin Bankers association, according to a letter received by the police here. They are Edward Welsh, who goes under the aliases of Ed. Doyle and Sheldon Red, and James Davis. The pair is wanted for slaying two policemen at Dewitt, Iowa.

Welsh and Davis are traveling in an Essex touring car and were traced as city last Sunday night and are understood to have gone into Wisconsin to commit a robbery. The automobile carried a Wisconsin license.

Both are notorious criminals and Davis is an escaped convict who was serving a life sentence.

Divorce counsels receive $10 a case for representing the state in uncontested divorces. They also receive $15 for follow-up cases such as failure to pay alimony. The expenses are paid by the county except when it is possible to collect from the defendant.

Unless otherwise stipulated between the surveyor and employing party, the county surveyor is permitted to charge $5 a day and 30 cents a mile traveling expenses in connection with surveying. He may also charge certain amounts for plats and certificates and for his assistants.

FARMERS STUDY ALFALFA GROWTH

Demonstration Tour Will Be Held in Northwestern Part of County

Several important varieties of fertilizer will be shown to farmers of Outagamie co on July 30 when a demonstration tour of the county will take place. The farmers will leave the Henry Flanagan farm at Bear Creek to make a series of stops for demonstration purposes. The first stop will be near Bear Creek and others will be held in the town of Horton, south of New London, and two in Shiocton. Beside the demonstration of fertilizer the effect of lime on sweet clover and alfalfa will be shown.

An expert from the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture is expected to take part in the work. The tour is under the auspices of the Clintonville-Bear Creek Cow Testing association.

TWO GO AS DELEGATES TO LABOR CONVENTION

Appleton will have at least two delegates at the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor which opens its sessions Tuesday at Lake Geneva. F. E. Bachman, president of Appleton Trades and Labor council, will be the delegate of that body and R. J. Duffner will represent the journeyman barbers. None of the other labor unions in the city will send delegates, according to present plans, mostly because of the expense it would entail to send one from each of the 23 organizations affiliated with the trades council. Meetings are to be held all through the week until Saturday, with business conferences, social activities, election of officers, parade, speeches and pleasure trips on Lake Geneva.

Because of the short life of dollar bills, replacing 40,000,000 dollar bills with coins would save the government $1,000,000 a year.

Be Careful, Madam

Palmolive complexions
do not come from other sorts of "olive oil" soaps

WE have led millions of women to expect fine complexions from olive and palm oils, as used in Palmolive Soap.

They have gained added beauty and fresh, clear skins. But some credit those results to olive and palm oils alone. And any "olive and palm" soap may claim to be a soap like Palmolive.

They are mistaken. Olive and palm oils have been used for ages. Cleopatra used them—Roman beauties used them. Castile soap—the real castile—attained its fame on olive oil alone.

But olive and palm oils in those forms never brought great results. Palmolive Soap has brought new beauty to millions. It has thus become the leading toilet soap of the world.

It is made in five countries to supply the world demand. And one is France—the home of fine cosmetics.

Just because Palmolive, based on 60 years of soap study, gives to these oils a new effect on the skin.

It has multiplied beautiful complexions. Now many times as many women keep their youth and charm.

There are soaps at 25 cents and over, which approach Palmolive in results. We know of two. But Palmolive sells at 10 cents—no more than ordinary soaps. Enormous production brings you this modest cost.

Now countless "olive and palm" soaps are offered for like purpose. Some have artificial colors, some are over-fatted. They will cleanse, if you want mere cleansers. But don't expect such soaps to bring Palmolive results to the skin. That is impossible.

Note the unnatural "too green" color of Palmolive imitators. What does that suggest? Men don't paint nature to improve it.

Olive and palm oils—nothing else—give Palmolive its delicate, natural color. Olive and palm oils—no other fats whatsoever—are used in Palmolive.

No "super-fattening," no "super-anything"—the only secret to Palmolive is its blending. And that is judged one of the world's priceless beauty secrets.

Wash, launder, cleanse with any soap you wish—but when beauty is at stake, take care. Use Palmolive, a soap you know is safe to use. Palmolive is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

Soap from Trees

The only oils in Palmolive Soap are the soothing beauty oils from the olive tree, the African palm and the coconut palm—and no other fats whatsoever.

That is why Palmolive Soap is the natural color that it is—for palm and olive oils, nothing else, give Palmolive its green color!

The only secret to Palmolive is its exclusive blend—and that is one of the world's priceless beauty secrets.

Note carefully
the name and wrapper.
Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

REVIVING THE APPLETON FAIR
No doubt the suggestion made at the recent meeting of the common council that steps be taken to revive the Appleton fair caused dubious head-shaking and incredulous smiles. And that was quite natural. But there is a good deal of merit in the suggestion that the fair be revived and also in the proposal that the city acquire a tract of land where a fair or other large public gatherings can be held.

Ask anyone in Seymour, Beaver Dam or DePere what he considers his community's greatest asset and he will tell you it is their fair. The great agricultural and industrial exhibits held annually in those cities have made them famous all over the middlewest and residents will tell you they have contributed materially to the prosperity of the communities.

There is no important reason why Appleton cannot have a similar advertising and prosperity building opportunity. It will be quite generally conceded that any effort to establish a fair similar to the one which faded out a decade ago will result in failure. The argument that a fair which largely features farm products and depends on city patronage cannot hope to survive is well taken, but there is no reason why that kind of a fair must be held here.

A fair to succeed here must appeal to community loyalty, business opportunity and civic pride rather than to a desire for entertainment and amusement. A fair must be something more than a miniature circus with exhibits of cows and chickens "thrown in" if it wishes to succeed in this community.

Outagamie county and Appleton have the talent and the resources to establish a three or four day exposition of rural and city products and industries that will rival anything in the country. A miniature farm might be set up to show the city dweller how the farmer lives; the process of paper making can be shown in such a way as to be of intense interest to the farmer; the city and country can collaborate to show how each other lives and works and both can be intensely interesting and instructive. Merely placing cows and horses, corn binders and milking machines on exhibition won't make a successful fair. The appeal must be deeper and broader.

The chamber of commerce, farm organizations, city and county officials will neglect a splendid opportunity of binding the country and city closer together if they do not give consideration to the suggestion made at the council meeting. Anything that will bring about a closer relationship between country and city is good for both and a properly planned fair surely would do that.

THAT TENNESSEE FARCE
The farce at Dayton, Tenn., is about over. Judge Raulston, by his decision to exclude scientific testimony on the theory of evolution, has reduced the issue to the simple fact of violation of the Tennessee statute, which is what the law and the legislature and the constitution contemplated. Mr. Darrow and his retinue of scientists are left in the lurch. The former can go back to Chicago, where life, whatever its origin, is of short duration and full of peril. The latter can go back to their microscopes and midnight oil. The issue Mr. Darrow and science attempted to raise in this trial had no place in it. He went too far in his efforts to force intellectual freedom on spiritual liberty.

If Tennessee chooses to bar the teaching of unsubstantiated theories from its public schools, that in no sense obstructs or prevents the forward march of science. The fact of evolution in nature is scientifically established. No one challenges this. Origin of species and change from one species to another through evolution are purely guess work. So is this explanation of the origin of man. In fact, there is less inclination to accept the monkey as our primeval ancestor than there was when the theory was advanced by Darwin.

Centuries of metaphysical and philosophical speculation as to the nature and origin of the universe and of man have led nowhere. Nor has science been of any assistance in solving these unknowable problems. The limitations on the finite respecting the infinite are just as great as they were 4000 years ago. Neither science, philosophy nor metaphysics knows what it is all about. It is true, as contended, that there is no conflict between science and religion, when science is held to exact boundaries. But much is promulgated in the name of science that is not science.

Mr. Bryan seemed to be the chief issue at Dayton. He is not popular with our heavyweights. He has gone off too many tangents. He greatly irritates some of our newspaper editors and our publicists. The New York World, the Chicago Tribune and H. L. Mencken are thrown into conniption fits every time the Commoner's name is mentioned. Still, they themselves at times are a bit queer too. Mr. Bryan's fundamentalism, childish and futile as it may be, is no more extreme than Mr. Darrow's iconoclasm. The latter is not likely to destroy christian faith any more than the former is to impede science. Christianity and science will be reconciled in the future as they have in the past, despite zealots and bigots.

If there is any intolerance in the rum-pus at Dayton, it is more on the side of so-called science than on the side of religion. Materialism, atheism, agnosticism, are demanding a free hand, and yielding nothing to the spiritual faith and religious instinct of man. Twenty years ago the scoffers would not have had standing room. The jazz age has helped to dignify their status. Still, we believe the world as a whole prefers to follow spiritual leaders in things religious and prefers faith to the hopeless gropings of science in dealing with the mysteries of life on which the conception of God and immortality rests.

HUGHES' RAILROAD PLAN
Charles E. Hughes, representing the receivers of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, has developed a plan for safeguarding the interests of weaker roads and improving their financial condition that is attracting national attention. Mr. Hughes' idea is that rate increases in western territory which are to be asked for generally, should be pooled and divided among the weaker roads in proportion to the extent that such roads fall short of earning 5 1/4 per cent on property investment. This proposed division of surplus earnings of the larger roads among the less profitable is closely akin to the purposes involved in government ownership. It is at least a radical modification of private operation. Opposition to it comes more from principle than from effects, since under the recapture clause of the transportation act the larger and more profitable roads would not be adversely affected.

The simple fact that Mr. Hughes advocates this proposal has much to recommend it. We think Mr. Hughes has undertaken this commission largely as a public service. His social and economic views are advanced and he is distinctly progressive in his conception of the relations between government and public utilities. Back of the plan is the powerful personality and capacity of the former secretary of state. His plan at least calls for thorough discussion and consideration, and undoubtedly it will receive the serious if not the favorable attention of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered. In the column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

OUR OCCULT POSSESSIONS
Most of us assume we are pretty sound, maybe a few minor functional disturbances but no organic trouble, until we are disillusioned perhaps by a life insurance examination or a voluntary or involuntary health examination.
In the autumn of 1924, 1,224 men students of the average age of 19 years were given complete physical examinations by the medical officers at the University of California, and the examination included complete chemical and microscopical urine examinations.
Fifty-one of the students were found to have abnormal urine specimens; thus 34 of these abnormal specimens showed a slight trace of albumin, six showed a decided trace of albumin, three showed sugar; 21 showed mucus; 17 showed pus cells; four showed red blood cells; four showed granular casts, and six showed uric acid casts.
In the majority of instances the specimens showing a slight trace of albumin, on further study of the men concerned, were found to be physiologic, the faint trace of albumin being due to a shower bath preceding the examination or to excitement of the examination. The albumin was absent on subsequent tests.
Of the six with decided traces of albumin, with or without casts, two were found to have nephritis (chronic), Bright's disease and one had a history of eruptive fevers which may have left the kidneys damaged.
In three cases with red blood corpuscles and white (pus) cells in the urine, two proved to be tuberculosis of the kidneys and one stone in the kidney. The diagnoses in these three cases were confirmed by X-ray pictures, cystoscopic examination and (in the tuberculosis cases) by animal inoculation.
In reporting these interesting and instructive observations on the health condition of what would seem to be the very healthiest class of men one could select. Dr. Robert T. Legge remarks: "The point to be made is that, with the exception of one case, none of these students realized that he possessed any kidney or bladder lesions—a rather eloquent argument as to the value of routine urine examinations. It is labor worth while, for the reward is so satisfactory, since chronic destructive pathologic changes are prevented, which ordinarily are determined only when constitutional symptoms are present and when therapy offers little prospect of alleviation."
Of course Dr. Legge does not refer to the treatment given the students with these possessions except to mention that the patients that needed surgical treatment were referred for operation, and the remainder were treated medically.
When 4.2 per cent of such a group of young men have such occult possessions, the chances are that a much greater proportion of us older fellows would learn from a careful health examination that we are owners of pathological lesions of which we are unaware.

This idea of a proprietary interest in one's hidden ailments is novel, something like catching a tartar, and yet when you come to think of it, a man owns his own kidneys surely and they're still his even though they be damaged by disease.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Polluted Garden Truck
Is there any danger of getting typhoid by eating radishes, onions and other vegetables from a garden that has been soaked or flooded with the contents of a septic tank or cess-pool? (S. F. F.)
Answer—Yes, and other diseases. Human sewage should never be used as manure or fertilizer for a garden.
How to Sun the Baby
How can I give my baby, 4 months old, the benefit of sunshine? Her eyes must be shaded and she has to have clothing on. Can any sunshine reach her under such condition if I put her to sleep in her carriage in the sun? (D. B. M.)
Answer—Of course the baby's eyes must always be protected against the glare of bright sunlight. Expose her legs alone to the direct sunlight for times a day at first. Increase the duration of exposure not over five minutes day after day. Increase also the area of naked skin exposed, say the legs and thighs and forearms the third day, etc. Give the baby about one-half as much time in the sun as you can stand comfortably yourself.

ACTRESS LIKES MODERN GIRLS
There Is Immodesty, Says Mrs. Whiffen, but There Also Is More Honesty

Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, in The Bathing Suits.
A granny who is a stage favorite of three generations has no fears for the youth of today. True, there is too little of the modern bathing suit, but, on the other hand, there is more honesty than in other generations she has known.
So, at 78, Mrs. Thomas Whiffen looks into the bright, eager faces of the boys and girls all around her and finds herself perfectly helpless. She "just can't help taking the part of a youth."
Every generation of young folk, she says, has had its fling. The boys and girls of today are no worse than those of yesterday. They are just different. She puts the difference in a nutshell:
"The young people of olden times had their fling outwardly. They flung the young folks of today are indulging in an inside or spiritual fling. It seems to me our young folks today are more honest than those who lived when I was a young lady. Take the matter of make-up, for instance. In those days the belles of the time put coloring on their cheeks, darkened their eyebrows and often added a touch of ruby to their lips. But they would not dream of letting their suitors know they did this."
"For all that they ever confessed otherwise, their cheeks were natural roses, their lips like the cherry itself, and their skin milk-white, although they had carefully seen to that a few minutes earlier with a swan's down puff and a very fine grade of powder."
"But nowadays a girl makes no secret of the fact that she is helping nature along by applying rouge to her cheeks and a lipstick to her smile. I feel, of course, so much make-up is a pity, because it spoils the naturally pretty skin of a girl. And then, too, perhaps I'm just an old-fashioned grandmother, but I can't feel that it is quite the ladylike thing for a nice, sweet girl to be attending to her personal appearance in public."

World's News Told In Brief, Simple Style

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
England may get into the North African war next.
First Spain got in. Then France. Italy has wanted to for some time, with a view to a territorial grab.
England is alarmed about Tangier. Tangier is across the straits from England's stronghold, Gibraltar. There's an international zone there.
This suits England next best to owning Tangier herself. She's determined no other power shall control the coast opposite "Gib."
But Spain says Abdelkrim, Moroccan rebel chief, is getting arms through the Tangier neutral zone. She threatens to seize the zone, to stop it. England suspects, in reality, the Spanish plan is to get and keep Tangier.
So she'll prevent the seizure, by force if necessary. Foreign Minister Chamberlain said so in the house of commons. If things get that bad, Italy probably will find some way of breaking into the fight, too.
CHINA'S TROUBLES
A committee consisting of the French and Italian ministers at Peking and a representative from the American legation there has been investigating the strike riot at Shanghai which started so much trouble in China.
This committee blames the English police officers who ordered his men to fire on the strikers, the English chief of Shanghai's foreign police and the chairman of the foreign municipal council which runs the city.
The various nationalities there take turns holding this chairman-ship and it happens to be America's turn just now. The post virtually is that of mayor and carries with it police control, even over the chief.
Neither the council chairman nor the police chief were on hand when the strikers were shot down and that's what the investigators blame them for.
BRITAIN OBJECTS
British interests in China are bringing tremendous pressure on their home government to block the American plan for restoring order there. They want order restored but not that way.
What Washington proposes is that foreigners shall give up running their own city governments and living under their own laws on Chinese soil, turn over to the Chinese the management of their own custom houses and finances and treat China as any other self-respecting country expects to be treated.
Now the British always have managed to dominate the foreign affairs at China's treaty ports, her customs service and all the other institutions which the occidental powers forced on her for their own advantage.
The British tactfully allowed the other nationalities to imagine they had as much to say as anybody, but the fact was they held the reins. It was a lovely arrangement for British trade, and British traders don't want it to end.
BROOKHART'S STECK
A subcommittee of the privileges and elections committee of the upper house of Congress will take up the latter part of July Daniel F. Steck's contest for Smith W. Brookhart's Senate seat.
It may seem that Brookhart's chances are doubtful. But—if he loses his seat now he doubtless will run against Senator Albert B. Cummins next year and beat him, perhaps.

THE MACHINERY OF COMPOSITION
Perhaps the most common question that is asked of a professional writer is, "How do you write—only when you're in the mood for it, only when you feel inspired?" There is a very common notion that authorship must wait on inspiration.
The confession of many writers shows that while there is such a thing as inspiration there is also such a thing as the mechanics of composition, and the wise writer will make use of the latter while all the time hoping that the former will come as a byproduct.
Jack London, as almost everybody knows, wrote exactly a thousand words a day. He had trained himself so thoroughly in the mechanics of authorship that he could produce that much copy and no more. He had to take many drinks sometimes to keep himself up to that labor but he could do it and he knew positively he could do it.
CAN'T ALWAYS WAIT
It is of course inconceivable that "inspiration," whatever it is, should come for exactly a thousand words and then leave. There are many flashes of inspiration in Jack London's work but they came by the way. In the course of the drudgery of writing, the professional writer could do his thousand words daily, some of it good, some bad, some "inspired." But if he had waited for the vague force "inspiration," he would probably never have completed a single book.
Edgar Allan Poe, who was probably more often authentically "inspired" than most American writers, was honest enough not to claim that his most subtle effects were the result of inspiration. I have told the story of the hap. Commins is a pillar of "regularity" and his fellow "regulars" will ponder a long time before exposing him to any such risk.
composition of "The Raven" before in this department—the exact number of lines the poem was to contain, the exact number of stanzas, how he figures out like a mathematician just exactly what effects he wished to produce and how he followed his estimates as closely as a contractor follows a set of blueprints. But that is not at all saying that there is no "inspiration" in "The Raven." It is full of flashes of inspiration but most sentimentalists who moon about inspiration would be shocked by Poe's honest analysis of the poem's process of composition.
John Keats wrote his long poem, "Endymion," at the rate of 50 lines a day. He determined before he started that each of the four books was to contain a thousand lines and on the day he started he could approximately figure out how many days would be required to complete the poem. The finished work was actually only a little over 4,000 lines, and each book was as near to 1,000 as is humanly reasonable.

The Question Box
There is a reason for all things. This great universe is so constructed that there must be a reason or cause for everything that takes place. It is often difficult for the average person to find out the why of things. We know that certain things are so, but we do not understand why they are so. Archery To Be Sport At Girls' Camp

Dan Cupid uses a bow and arrow to shoot at hearts. Girls going to the women's club camp at Onaway Island Waupaca, will also make extensive use of a bow and arrow but they are not after hearts. Their only "aim" at camp will be to hit the bulls eye of a large target hung up on a tree. Mrs. Herbert Hackworthy will be in charge of camp archery, a popular sport with the girls at Onaway Island last year. The women's club has two bows, about five feet in length, and also has a number of metal tipped, feathered arrows. Girls wishing to take their own arrows may do so. The girls have made their own target which is about three feet in diameter and is painted in four colors. Girls who have never had experience in archery will be instructed in the use of bow and arrow before being allowed to shoot at the target.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Mary Mullarkey of Bear Creek, and Harold E. Scribner of Stevens Point, was solemnized at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary church at Bear Creek. The Rev. M. Alt performed the ceremony. Miss Eleanor Mullarkey, sister of the bride, and Leonard Scribner, brother of the bridegroom, were the attendants. A wedding breakfast was served at Elwood hotel at New London for immediate relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Scribner left for a wedding trip to Milwaukee and Chicago after which they will make their home in Stevens Point. The out of town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Scribner and daughter Ruth and sons Edward and Leonard of Stevens Point.

GIRLS AT CAMP WILL PREPARE OWN SONG BOOKS

Girls attending Appleton Women's club camp this week at Onaway Island, Waupaca, will make their own camp song books as a part of the handicraft work of the camp. The song books will have a green cover, with white leaves for the song pages. The girls will print the words of the songs on the leaflets and sew the covers. Each song book cover is to be cleverly decorated with hand drawings or with clipped pictures or drawings, and the girls are urged to begin thinking about a clever decoration for their song book covers. Genevieve Jones, a Lawrence conservatory student, will have charge of camp singing.

AUSTRALIA PAYS FOR IMMIGRANTS

Cost of Getting One Individual from England Estimated at $5,000

By Associated Press Sydney — In connection with a recent agreement in London between England and Australia to assist 450,000 emigrants from the United Kingdom to get settled on land here, it has been estimated that the cost of this undertaking will be from $5,000 to $10,000 for each individual making the 16,000 mile voyage.

Prime Minister Bruce, in announcing the estimate of cost, said that many reproductive and development works were awaiting the emigrants. The two governments will bear the cost of the transport.

It is planned that the 450,000 men, women and children who are to be sent to Australia within the next ten years under this scheme, designed to relieve the unemployment problem of England, will comprise a great many persons whose aim is to settle on crown land and become cattle raisers and farmers.

250 Persons At Picnic For Pioneers

More than 250 persons attended the picnic given Saturday by the Outagamie Pioneer association at Hortonville. The picnic opened at noon with a dinner. A. G. McComb of Oshkosh, speaker of the day told about the early days he spent in Outagamie-co. Many old settlers, including several from Milwaukee, Orono, Chicago and Wausau, related some of the interesting facts about their lives in this county.

The Union choir, composed of singers from the different churches at Hortonville, presented several numbers and Joseph Birmingham gave several flute and violin solos. One of the features of the picnic was old time music by the Birmingham band. Races, contests and games, under the direction of Walter Carroll, playground instructor at Milwaukee, supplied a large part of the entertainment for the afternoon.

CLAIMS CULTURE IS THING OF PAST

Danish Critic Speaks of Pernicious Influence of Press on World

By Associated Press Berlin—George Brandes, the Danish critic, recently lectured in Berlin on "Europe as it is today." Despite his 84 years, the speaker's mental keenness and elasticity are surprising. Brandes is not infatuated with the Europe of today. Culture, he believes, is a thing of the past. In 1913 he said, the fires of the impending world conflagration were glimmering everywhere in Europe and quite as much in Paris as elsewhere. When he made this declaration there was a dead silence in the crowded hall. He continued to speak of the pernicious influence of the press everywhere in bringing about the World war and was scathing in his remarks when he broached the question of cultural development in Europe since the war.

He mentioned that a well known French journalist had asked his opinion about the international state of culture. "Culture," he had replied "is dead. Therefore there can be no question of an international culture. Look at France today. She can no longer stand criticism. Her best friends remain silent. Today she has become the heir of Prussian militarism."

Dr. Brandes admitted that Russia, Japan and China showed symptoms of cultural progress. But wherein was Europe progressing? With a disparaging gesture he declared that in the world's cultural development? he

KANSAS KNOWN AS LANDING STATION FOR METEORITES

Scientist Asserts Middle State Has No Undue Attraction for Stars

By Associated Press McPherson, Kan. — Kansas has attained a reputation beyond this planet as a landing field for stray meteorites, but that reputation would not stand the test of science, declared Prof. H. H. Nininger of McPherson college, past president of the Kansas Academy of Science, in an address on the subjects of meteorites.

The belief that Kansas, center of the United States, exerts some unexplained influence on the heavenly wanderers, is without foundation in fact, the professor asserted. A chart of recorded meteorite falls disclosed that one fifth of the significant finds in the world have been in Kansas, and this has led, according to Professor Nininger, to the popular and fallacious impression that this state is peculiarly attractive to meteorites.

Two explanations he offered for the apparent monopoly Kansas has maintained: the character of the soil and the interest aroused in the science. "The finding of stony meteorites," Professor Nininger pointed out, "which have not been seen to fall, may be considered among the rarest events in the annals of meteorics. In only two localities on this continent have such finds occurred in numbers—western Kansas and the coastal plains of Texas. In both these regions the soil is comparatively free from terrestrial rocks." This, he said, facilitates distinguishing meteoritic stones from the earth.

A series of witnessed falls of now famous iron and stone meteorites also had kept scientific circles, the public and the press interested in Kansas for long periods, he said, with the result that farmers began to believe that the heavy stones with which they were weighing down fences and roofs were in fact meteorites. Thus were the discoveries multiplied.

Scientists have never satisfactorily accounted for the concentration of iron meteorites in large showers. Professor Nininger told his audience. One theory is that such showers are remnants of disintegrating comets which have "side-swiped" the earth. This, he said, may explain the huge crater in northeast Arizona, devoid of volcanic rock and surrounded by traces of iron meteorite falls, which geologists believe marks the entrance into the earth of a monster meteorite.

Since 1880 the mineral production in Alaska was more than ten times the amount the United States paid Russia for the territory.

OPEN DUNGEONS. IN LONDON TOWN

Thousands of Sightseers Visit Ancient Prisons in Metropolis

London—Four additional towers of the famous Tower of London have been opened for the first time for the convenience of the thousands of sightseers from all parts of the world who visit this historic place weekly. The great oaken doors of these towers, known as the Byward, Salt, Martin and Board Arrow were found to be in a wonderful state of preservation, and the great dungeons where enemy spies were lodged during the last war are now open to public inspection for the first time in history.

It was near the Martin Tower that some of the spies were shot, among them Carl Hans Lody, a German who posing as an American, was captured in the summer of 1914, and who was the first person to be executed in these precincts for nearly 100 years.

In past centuries hundreds of traitors and prisoners of state were confined in the towers, and many of them whiled away the weary days carving pictures and inscriptions on the walls and these are still visible today.

MONGOL INDIFFERENT AS TO REALM'S SIZE

By Associated Press Berlin—An amusing story is told here by a publisher of geographical maps. A Mongolian prince recently visited Berlin to place an order for maps of his country. The publisher was glad to get the order but told the prince that the latest maps he had were published before the war. "I must confess," said the publisher, "that I don't know the exact boundaries of your country at present. Haven't you some material that will tell me how to draw the boundary lines?"

"No, I haven't," was the reply. "But it doesn't matter. Just draw the boundaries as wide as possible, so that my people may see how large their country is."

Byward Tower, being the main entrance to the inner ward, must have its gates carefully locked every night and the chief warden, in his scarlet coat and flat hat, with an escort from the military guard, himself performs that duty.

As far as is known positively the Tower of London, which today covers 12 acres, dates from the time of William the Conqueror, who began the White tower somewhere about 1078, and completed it about 20 years afterward. At first it was a palace, but later was used as a prison.

AEROLUX VENTILATING PORCH SHADES

Mid-Summer Showing of Porch Furnishings

SUMMER Comforts are here in infinite variety to give you a new conception of enjoyment at home. Fit your porch (of any type) with AEROLUX full ventilating Porch Shades and bring new comfort to the porch.

AEROLUX Shades are not dependent upon a small ventilating area for air circulation but will give full length ventilation by which every vagrant summer breeze is captured yet they shut out the summer sun and rain.

We recommend Aerolux Shades because:

1. They give full length ventilation.
2. They are easy to install by means of the exclusive Hang-Easy device.
3. They never flap in the wind—their "No-Whip" feature is exclusive.
4. They add beauty to the house at small cost.
5. Best value in Porch Shades.

PARKING SPACE TO BE PROVIDED AT CITY GARAGE

McCarty Construction Co.
Completes Project Near
New Paved Street

Kaukauna—Joseph McCarty Construction Co. has been completing its paving project in front of the municipal garage. A short stretch of pavement was put down there a few weeks ago, combining Main-ave with Oak-st. Although the concrete was about 40 feet wide it left approximately 5 feet from the edge of the road to the foundations of the Lawe-st bridge which was unpaved. During the latter part of last week the company has been busy hauling fine crushed stone on this unpaved space. The stone has been rolled with the steam roller. The empty space now has a hard surface and will be converted into a parking space for autos which have business in the municipal building. Car drivers have a habit of stopping their cars in front of the post office and many times there are cars parked on each side, leaving only a small lane for traffic. Autos hereafter are expected to run their cars off the road when they wish to park.

ORDER HUSBAND TO PROVIDE FOR WIFE'S SUPPORT

Jero Released on Bond After Hearing in New London Police Court

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The hearing of Floyd Jero, charged with failing to support his wife, Mildred Jero, took place before Police Justice Harlowe Miller here on Saturday afternoon. District Attorney Otto L. Olm of Clintonville, represented the state. Jero was arrested in Oshkosh last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jero lived at their home on Elm-st here until last March, when Mr. Jero went to Oshkosh to seek employment. Since that time he has had two jobs and is now employed at the Badger Lumber Co. His wife alleged he had sent her only $30 during the five months in which he was at work at Oshkosh. She has been working at the Modern Manufacturing Co. plant here since winter. She has supported herself and their two children, Niel, 6, and Donald, 4, on her earnings, she said. She testified she pays her mother $2 a week for the care of her children while she is at work, and keeps one boarder.

The Jeros were married in 1916 and Jero supported his wife until last winter, she testified. She charged, however, that she had been forced to buy her own clothes during the last two years, and was obliged to work last winter to keep from starving. Mr. Jero is earning $12 per month in Oshkosh, and alleged that he could not work in this city. Mr. Jero said he asked his wife to move to Oshkosh, but she refused. The case was adjourned until August 15. Mr. Jero will not be forced to appear in court at that time provided he sends $30 a month to the police court which will turn it over to Mrs. Jero. The case will be continued from time to time as long as the payments continue. He was released on bond of $100 which he secured.

REBUILDING OF CHURCH IS TO START AT ONCE

Catholics Decide to Build Rectory and Basement for New Edifice

Special to the Post-Crescent

New London—The Most Precious Blood congregation of this city will begin work on a new edifice to replace the one which burned to the ground here on June 12. This was decided at a meeting of the congregation and the newly appointed building committee on Sunday. At the meeting which was held following early mass in the morning a committee consisting of Leo Froelich, Jacob Werner, Peter Schetter, John Cooney and Frank Pettie was appointed. The meeting then adjourned until 2:30 in the afternoon. Joseph Brielmaler of the Brielmaler & Sons Architectural Co., Milwaukee, which specializes in work on Catholic churches, was present at the afternoon meeting, and submitted a plan for the new structure. It was this firm which drew up the plans for the parochial school, which was built about ten years ago.

The plan which was decided upon at the afternoon meeting was to build the basement upon which would later be erected the superstructure. The new rectory is to be built in connection. The basement will be about twelve feet deep, and will be erected part under and part above the ground. This would be made of concrete, with a concrete and hollow tile roof, the roof to be later used as the floor of the new church.

The general plan of the buildings and their location was unanimously approved. It placed the new rectory on the site of the old church, at the corner of So. Pearl-st and Quincy-sts. It would face S. Pearl-st. The church would be built near the site of the present rectory, which would be moved to a different location, after being disposed of. The church and rectory would be connected at the rear. The new church will be slightly larger than the old one. Immediately upon the completion of the rectory an assistant pastor will be applied for. It was estimated by Mr. Brielmaler that the two buildings, complete, would cost $125,000. He offered to build them for that amount. However, this would entail a heavier debt than the congregation cares to put up with at the present time. The plan is to erect at first, only the rectory and basement.

START AT ONCE
The sentiment of the congregation is to start building at once. At a private meeting of the building committee, which was held after the afternoon session, Mr. Brielmaler was instructed to draw plans for the basement and rectory, and to present them at the earliest possible time. In the meantime, the committee will consult with Bishop Paul P. Rhode at Green Bay, and will also travel to the surrounding parishes to look at churches.

It is estimated that the two buildings which have been decided upon will take about 60 days for completion. Building will not be started before Sept. 1, as the plans will not be completed before that time, and the work of tearing down the old ruins will not be finished before then. The work on the ruins will be begun at once.

SOCIAL WHIRL IN NEW LONDON

New London—About fifty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peterson on Friday evening for a farewell party for Miss Anna Peterson of Chicago, who spent the last few weeks at her home here. Games and contests furnished entertainment. The Rev. J. Richard Olson gave an address.

The Tuesday Club will meet Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Edward Roloff, instead of with Mrs. August Bratz, as had been planned. The Catholic Order of Foresters will meet at the Parish hall on Wednesday evening.

The card party which was given by the American Legion auxiliary at the home of Dr. A. C. Borchardt was well attended. Five hundred, schafkopf, and skat was played. Mrs. A. M. Ross and Miss Katherine Jagoditsch won first and second prizes at five hundred; John Dengel and Mrs. J. E. Jeffries won at schafkopf, and Jacob Werner and William Butler won the skat prizes.

The wedding of Miss Pearl McGowan and Carl Schoenrock, both of New London, will take place here on July 24.

MEAT OF RABBIT GOOD FOX FOOD

Fur Farmer Urges Western Post Be Preserved and Sold to Alaskan Farms

By Associated Press
Cordova, Alaska—Washington and other states of the Union might profit from the jack rabbit pest, if they killed the animals, powdered the meat and sold it to Alaska fox farmers for summer feed, in the opinion of J. Williamson, owner of the largest fox farm along the Russian River on the Kenai peninsula.

More than 5,000 rabbits were slaughtered by Williamson last winter. The meat was ground, placed on racks over a stove where it was dried, and then pulverized and stored in sacks.

The rabbit powder was mixed with water and vegetables, boiled and served to foxes during the summer, making an agreeable change of diet from fish and porcupine.

Another form of preserving the meat is to pack it when fresh into five-gallon oil cans. About 35 rabbits are put into one can water is poured over the meat and the can set outdoors until its contents freeze. The can is then thawed loose and removed from the block containing the meat. The block is stored in ice houses that prevent it thawing until feeding time in summer.

ASK FRATERNITY TO DEDICATION

Phi Beta Kappa Thought to Have Originated in Raleigh Tavern

Williamsburg, Va.—A copy of the Apollo room of the Raleigh Tavern, famous old colonial, hostelry where the international honorary scholastic society of Phi Beta Kappa is believed to have been founded, has been provided for in plans drawn for the reconstruction of the College of William and Mary campus here of a $100,000 memorial building honoring the 50 men who founded the society in 1776. The building will be of red brick and will conform in its outlines to the general style of the rest of the college buildings.

From the campus of William and Mary, the Phi Beta Kappa society has extended over most of the civilized world. Chapters are situated at the majority of the larger American colleges and there are alumni chapters in many foreign countries. All these will be asked to take part in the dedication of the memorial which probably will be in December, 1926.

BERLIN WOMEN TIRE OF WOMEN DANCE PARTNERS

By Associated Press
Berlin—This year's ball of Berlin's women artists marked an important departure from a tradition of 30 years. While formerly it was a festive occasion for women only, the more male was this year not only invited, but fairly wooed.

When the women artists of the German capital started out in 1895 to arrange an annual costume party, they hit upon the novel idea of limiting it to members of the fair sex. This meant that all women with lithe, graceful figure dressed as men and as such became the dancing partners for the others. The ball enjoyed great popularity among the suffragettes, who pointed out that women were not condemned to wait modestly until some male dancer asked them to have a turn on the floor, but anybody in female attire could unblushingly ask anybody in male garb to dance.

But when the ball was revived for the first time after the war, a year ago, it was found that the modern woman no longer cares to come to a ball of spinsters.

GREEN SCORES NEW TRIUMPH

In drama or comedy, novel or play, studio or backstage, Alfred E. Green is perfectly at home, judging from his recent First National pictures, all of which have run the gamut of life's emotions and atmosphere, and yet scored some of the most sensational hits of the season.

This clever director's flare for comedy was no better evidenced than "In Hollywood With Potash and Perlmutter," in which he screened the amusing adventures of those two delightful Montague Glass characters in the movies. Following came his production of "Inez From Hollywood," Adele Rogers, St. John's intimate story of the film vampire, which, although being another "inside" story of the studios, revealed Green's technical versatility. It is classified as one of the dramatic picture hits of the recent releases.

In keeping with his pace, the director produced one of the greatest pictures of many seasons in "Sally," the screen version of the Ziegfeld musical comedy, in which Colleen Moore is starred, supported by Leon Errol of the original stage cast.

To make it "even Stephen" between drama and comedy, Green's latest one of his finest screen contributions, is "The Talker," by Marion Fairfax, for Sam E. Rork. Several years ago "The Talker" was received as one of the most brilliant dramas of the season in New York. It had Lewis Stone and Tully Marshall in the original cast, and they are playing the same roles in the picture, which First National will offer at the Elite theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

COMEDIANS OF JUNGLE
One of the most novel and intensely interesting pictures of the season is the new William Fox comedy feature "Darwin Was Right," at the New Bijou theatre today and Tuesday. This

FIVE CREWS KEEP COUNTY ROADS IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Highway Commissioner Reports Rapid Progress on Construction Work

With five crews working on Outagamie county roads, practically all of the county and state trunk projects are making greater progress than last year, according to William Reese, county superintendent of patrols, and A. G. Brewster, county highway commissioner. All of the direct county appropriation work for 1925 has been started and much of it has been completed. Many other projects will be started within the next two weeks.

Concrete work on the main street of the village of Seymour has been completed and the street is open to travel. Only the shoulders remain to be completed on Dodge-st., Kaukauna, and this thoroughfare is expected to be ready for travel early this week. Contracts for paving Draper-st., Kaukauna, will be let July 22. Grading has been completed on the main street of the village of Black Creek and highway 47 north of Black Creek is being put in good shape. Crews have started hauling material and grading work has been started on highway 76 on the stretch known as the Shiocton-Bear Creek road, preliminary to paving. Highway 55, just north of Seymour, a gravel stretch, has been scarified and now is in excellent shape.

Two state gang maintenance projects, both county $5,000 will be completed by next week. The detour on highway 55, in the town of Freedom, is suitable for traffic and the other project, a stretch on highway 26 in the town of Greenville, will be ready this week.

County trunk highway S in the town of Kaukauna, a county project involving $15,000, is within a week of completion and two other county projects have been started. They are county-trunk highway E in the town of Oneida, a $15,158.97 project and the same highway in the town of Freedom, a $13,000 project. One county aid project was to be started this week. This improvement of county trunk-M in the village of Dale, involving $4,000 county and town aid work has been started in three towns, Freedom, Maine and Kaukauna. Contracts were let on July 9 for three bridges and these will be started within the next two weeks. They are the Bloomer bridge in the town of Freedom, Earl Smith contractor; the Barbier bridge in the town of Freedom, Patrick M. Garvey, contractor; the Sears bridge in the town of Oneida, Charles Appleton, contractor.

The county grading crew is working at the southeastern city limits of Seymour where state highways 54 and 55 intersect. Another crew is working on the shoulders of the Dodge-st. paving at Kaukauna. The work of a third crew, which is hauling crushed stone for county highway S near Kaukauna, is practically completed. The other two county crews are hauling gravel. One of these is working on highway 54 between Shiocton and New London and the other is hauling gravel from August Burmeister's pit at Cicero to workmen on county highways E and G and state highway 156.

DON'T TRANSPORT SHRUBS, TREES

State Trying to Prevent Spread of Plant Diseases Over Wisconsin

Prevention of the spread of insect pests and plant diseases by tourists who transport trees and plants from Wisconsin resorts to their homes, is being attempted by the Wisconsin department of agriculture, J. D. Jones, Jr., commissioner has announced.

Large signs warning tourists that the transportation of vegetation is prohibited by law, unless such vegetation is first properly inspected, have been placed throughout the big woods fishing country of northern Wisconsin, and on the principal highways.

"The signs are for the purpose of warning tourists of the danger of carrying insect pests and plant diseases in connection with uninspected plant material," the announcement said. "Some of those most likely to be brought into Illinois and other central states are the white pine blister rust, the spruce budworm and jack pine tussock moth."

The white pine blister rust is a fatal disease of white pine and other closely related trees, which was accidentally introduced into northwestern Wisconsin from Germany a dozen years ago. It is not known anywhere in the central part of the United States except in certain sections of Wisconsin, Minnesota and one or two points in Michigan and if it were unintentionally carried by tourists into the districts of ornamental plantings and high grade nurseries along Chicago's north shore and in other parts of Illinois the damage would be very great.

The jack pine tussock moth is a relative of the gypsy moth and is a native in northwestern Wisconsin. In its present location it has attacked only jack pine but what other trees it might find desirable if carried into new localities is unknown.

The spruce budworm, which is also found in this region, is one of the most injurious pests of evergreens found on the American continent.

COUNTY GETS $39,097 FROM AUTO LICENSES

A check for $39,097.86 was received Saturday by Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, from the office of Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, for the Outagamie-co share of motor vehicle licenses. The amount of the check was increased $5,441.73 over 1924, when the county received $33,656.23 for the same purpose, according to Miss Ziegenhagen.

JEWELERS GO TO STATE MEETING

Gustave Keller Scheduled to Respond to Mayor's Address of Welcome

R. J. Treiber of Plitz and Treiber, M. Spector of Spector's Jewelry store and Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Keller expect to attend the twentieth annual convention of Wisconsin Retail Jewelers which will be held July 21 and 22 in Eau Claire. Mr. Keller will speak in response to the address of welcome which is being given by Mayor Barron.

Registration of delegates and visitors will take place at 9:30 Tuesday morning at Hotel Eau Claire. The convention will be called to order by President John P. Hess, and reports of last year's business will be made by the secretary and treasurer. Addresses will be given by prominent men in the afternoon. An executive session will be held Tuesday evening with Vice President J. F. Krumrich as presiding officer. A buffet lunch and several features will close the meeting of the day.

The annual meeting of the policyholders of the National Jewelers Mutual Fire Insurance company will be held at 9:30 Wednesday. Unfinished business and reports of financial matters will occupy the time on Wednesday afternoon, following which the session will be adjourned. A banquet and dance will be held after the business meeting Wednesday afternoon at Electric Park Lake.

STEINBERG LEADS STATE FOR INSURANCE SALES

Daniel P. Steinberg has been given special recognition in the service bulletin of Aetna Insurance company, for having written the most casualty, bond and automobile insurance of Halile, midway between Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls. A vocal program is being arranged for the entertainment of the guests.

any agent in Wisconsin for the first six months of this year. More than 300 Wisconsin agents are listed in the class of leading producers and Mr. Steinberg heads the list of business written from Jan. 1 to July 1. This refers to the casualty, bond and automobile insurance department of the company only. Agents are making an effort to break all previous records to honor the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Aetna's casualty group.

APPLETON AWARD 1926 DISTRICT SAENGERFEST

SINGING CLUB AMONG BEST AT MERRILL FEST

O. W. Schaefer Again Is Elected Head of Eastern
Wisconsin Saenger Besirk

Appleton was awarded the 1926 Saengerfest of the Eastern Wisconsin Saenger Besirk according to William Eggert, president of the Appleton Saengerchor, which took part in the annual saengerfest at Merrill Saturday and Sunday. Otto Schaefer, Appleton was selected president of the Eastern Wisconsin singers at the Merrill fest.

Seventy-two Appleton people attended the song festival. Of this number 65 were members of the Appleton mixed choir. The director of the Milwaukee Liederkranz, Otto A. Singenberger, congratulated William H. Pruett, director of the Appleton mixed choir, on his splendid singing organization saying it was the best balanced choir he had heard for a long time. The Milwaukee Liederkranz is not a member of the eastern Wisconsin organization, but was a guest at the concert. It is considered one of the best singing organizations of the country and will tour Europe this year.

Appleton mixed choir was the first on the concert program which was given at Riverside park concert hall. Other organizations taking part in the fest were Eau Claire Gesangverein Germania, Green Bay Fidelia, Manitowish Freie Sangerbund Concordia, Marinette Liederkranz, Merrill Liederkranz, Milwaukee Liederkranz, Sheboygan Concordia, Wausau Gesangverein Germania, and the Wausau Liederkranz. Appleton had the largest representation at the festival. About 500 singers took part in the program.

The Appleton delegation went to Wausau on a special train in company with the Sheboygan, Manitowish and Green Bay organizations. From Wausau the remainder of the trip was made by bus. The official delegates from Appleton were William Eggert, Herman Pruett, Peter Jacobs, Mike Jacobs and Anton Brandt. The Eagles bugle and drum corps also attended the festival and attracted much attention.

Officers elected in addition to O. W. Schaefer as president were Joseph Behrens of Sheboygan, vice president; Simon Grassie of Sheboygan, treasurer; Joseph M. Thies of Sheboygan, secretary.

DARROW IS CITED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

the witnesses on the stand the state desires to cross-examine them. I shall expect them to do so.

Mr. Darrow: We expected it and take no exception.

The court: Yes sir; always expect this court to rule correctly.

Mr. Darrow: No sir, we do not.

(Laughter).

The court: I suppose you anticipated it.

Mr. Darrow: Otherwise we would not be taking our exceptions here, your honor. We expect to protect our rights in some other court. Now, rights in plain enough, isn't it? Then we will make statements on what we expect to prove. Can we have the rest of the day to draft them?

The court: I would not say—

Mr. Darrow: If your honor takes a half a day to write an opinion—

The court: I have not taken any statements here of what we expect to prove. I do not understand why every request of the state and every suggestion of the prosecution should meet with an endless grant of time, and a bare suggestion of anything that is perfectly competent on our part should be immediately overruled.

The court: I hope you do not mean to reflect upon the court.

Mr. Darrow: Well, your honor has the right to hope.

The court: I have a right to do something else, perhaps. (End record)

WANT TO READ STATEMENTS

When the question of the submission of statements from eight scientists and two clergymen came up, the defense sought the right to read them into the record, while the state would have had them placed in the record of the case without comment from attorneys. The defense desired these statements in the case as showing for the benefit of a higher court if the case is appealed, what would have been testified if these witnesses had been permitted to testify. The court finally ruled that portions of the statements might be read in the absence of the jury, one hour being devoted to this part of the procedure. The ten statements offered for the record contained more than 60,000 words.

SAYS SPEEDER STRUCK HIS CAR IN THE REAR

The rear end of an automobile driven by Peter Traas, 128 N. Union-st., was practically demolished Sunday at Chilton when it was struck in the rear by a speeding motorist. Neither Mr. Traas nor his wife who accompanied him were injured although Mrs. Traas received a bad shaking. The local car was spun completely around off to the side of the highway. One rear axle was broken off, a running board and rear fender were wrecked and the gas tank was dented.

A. A. L. PAYS $25,000 TO DOCTORS EACH YEAR

Among those who come in for a share of the money received by the Aid Association for Lutherans from its members every year are several hundred physicians located in various parts of the country. More than $25,000 is paid to them each year for medical examination of insurance applicants.

About 400 checks are sent out from the national offices here every three months to doctors who have made examinations. Each fee amounts to $3 and the sum usually paid out for a quarter ranges from $5,000 to $6,000. Physicians in the large cities receive the most and checks sent them run as high as $200 a quarter sometimes. Every person who applies for members must submit to a physical examination to determine if he or she is a desirable insurance risk. Usually this work is done by the same physician for each locality. A record is kept here of all the examinations made and a large consignment of checks is placed in the mail every quarter.

CAR PUSHED OVER IN DITCH; NO ONE HURT

Although the car in which they were driving was completely wrecked, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Miller, and Miss Viola Maas all of Appleton, escaped serious injury when their car was struck by a machine driven by Louis Jarchow, Seymour, and bowled over in a ditch near Seymour at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Miller was driving his sedan north on highway 55 when Jarchow, driving east on a side road, struck the car and knocked it into the ditch. Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Miss Maas suffered light scratches and bruises. Miller's sedan was wrecked but Jarchow's car is not seriously damaged.

While Exhibit B (right) is the latest Paris heartbreaker, Jacques Catalain, who is called the "Valentino" of French movies. How do they compare with your American boy friends?

FINISH JOHN-ST BRIDGE PILING

Traffic Due to Resume Monday Night—Government Will Fix Other Piers

John-st bridge was expected to be opened for traffic Monday evening, as the government work on the protection piers was about due for completion then. R. M. Connelly, city engineer, announces.

The drawbridge has been swung open all the time the Greiling Bros. pile driver has been at work and traffic had to be detoured over other bridges. Barriades were placed at streets far enough away to warn drivers but some autoists disregarded them and went as far as the bridge, only to turn around.

Protection piers of all the drawbridges have been damaged by boats passing through and the government is making the repairs. Mr. Connelly expects that piling will be given at S. Onondia and S. Law-st drawbridges also while the crew is working here. These draws may have to be swung open in order to accomplish the task but the proper barricading will be done so traffic can be diverted.

COMMERCE BODY ORDERS NEW DAKOTA RAIL RATES

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Freight rates on classified shipments from Watertown, S. D., to southern Minnesota points were held Monday by the Interstate Commerce commission to place jobbers of Watertown at an unfair disadvantage, as compared with rates from the Twin Cities in Minnesota and from Sioux Falls, S. D., and Sioux City, Ia.

Railroads were ordered to remove the discrimination by filing new schedules before Sept. 10.

Cars Collide

Automobiles owned by Leo Schuh, route 1, Kaukauna, and Martin Voight, 1815 S. Newberry-st., had their right rear fenders damaged Saturday evening. Schuh was backing his car away from the curb on N. Superior-st. near Brandt garage and collided with the Voight machine. The occupants were not hurt.

BUTCHERS AND MARKET MEN IN ANNUAL PICNIC

Games, Talks and Contests
Entertain 150 Men at Big Picnic

Appleton wholesale meat dealers handed Appleton retail meat dealers a 13 to 3 trimming and the Appleton Meat Cutters union butchered the Master Butchers association by a 12 to 2 tally in baseball games which were the feature events of the joint outing of the Appleton Meat Cutters union and the Master Butchers association Sunday at Stroebes Island. The local butchers union took another crack at the Master Butchers association when they out-pulled them in the tug of war.

At least 150 butchers, meat cutters, packing salesmen, and wholesale meat dealers attended the outing. The parade of autos going to the outing left the corner of College-ave and Onondia-st. at 9 o'clock Sunday morning for the island. They were escorted by a platoon of police, and by the 120th artillery band. The band furnished music for the meat dealers throughout the day.

Congressman George Schneider gave a short talk in which he voiced his approval of such an outing which brought employer and employee to gather in close fellowship, and which made for better working relations between men engaged in the same trade.

Other events in which a great number of contestants took part were the fat mens race, wrestling, boxing, shotput, horseshoe pitching, and the broad jump.

Fifteen packing houses and wholesale meat and grocery establishments of the state and city gave prizes to the winners of the various events. No written record was kept of the prize winners in all the events it was said. The prizes were smoked hams, boxes of sliced bacon, boxes of graham crackers, boxes of cigars, assorted canned goods, salted waters, wieners, coffee, and soap flakes.

I. D. Segal was in charge of the entertainment for the outing, and was assisted by William Becker.

HIRED THUGS

Charles B. Davies, retired business man of Concordia, Kas., told police he had given a group of Kansas City gunmen $2000 to kill his wife. The attempt failed, however, and the gunmen blackmailed him until he confessed. Later, however, he repudiated the confession.

NEW SEATS ORDERED FOR ST. PAUL SCHOOL

Thirty new seats for the parochial school were ordered purchased by the congregation of St. Paul Lutheran church at the quarterly business meeting at the church Sunday afternoon. Members also voted to rent a home which will serve as a parsonage for the Rev. Fred Brandt, assistant pastor, who was just married. Three new members were received.

PEOPLE TO PLAN TWO HUNDREDTH WASHINGTON DAY

Celebration in 1932 Probably Will Depend on Citizens' Choice

By Associated Press
Washington—The American people probably will be given a free voice as to the character of the celebration which is to commemorate in 1932 the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

The celebration will be held here in the city which Washington founded, and will be under the direction of a commission created by the last Congress and of which President Coolidge is the ex-officio chairman. Some suggestions as to the nature of the event now are being received.

Sponsors of the celebration hope it will be more spiritual than materialistic, stressing the character, achievements and institutions of the Father of his Country. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard, has expressed the view that the celebration should be directed in large measure to the rising generation, not to the passing or the past, and that its aim should be to increase the number of Washington's disciples and followers in and for the struggles of the future.

Besides the President of the United States the members of the commission are the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House, as ex-officio commissioners; Senators Fess, Ohio, vice chairman, and Spencer, Missouri, Republicans; Glass, Virginia, and Bayard, Delaware, Democrats; Representatives Hawley, Oregon, Tilson, Connecticut, Republicans; Garner, Texas and Byrns, Tennessee, Democrats. The commissioners appointed by the President are: Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Pennsylvania, president of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Mary Sherman of Colorado, president general of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Henry Ford of Michigan; Harford MacNider of Iowa, former national commander of the American Legion; C. Bascom Slemple, former secretary to President Coolidge; A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard; Edgar B. Piper, Portland, Ore., publisher; Frank A. Munsey, New York, publisher, and John Hays Hammond of Washington, engineer.

Mrs. Lucius J. Townsend, who has been visiting relatives in Appleton, returned to her home in New York Sunday. She was accompanied by Mrs. A. Ceary of this city.

Sherwood, 8 to 1, in Interesting Game

Menasha—The Riverviews won their third consecutive victory Sunday by defeating the strong Legion team of Little Chute by a score of 12 to 5. The Riverviews played great ball back of Romnek who got 15 hits, while the legion got 7. Handy, catcher, for the Riverviews, caught four men trying to steal bases. A large crowd attended the game.

The St. Mary Young Men's team won at Sherwood Sunday 8 to 1. Goetz, their pitcher, allowed only two hits and struck out 14 men. Pocan, who was on the mound for Sherwood, struck out 7 men. A. Kraus of the visiting team made a home run. Sherwood made its only run in the fifth inning due to an error. The batteries were: Young Men's team, Goetz and Robinson; Sherwood, Pocan and Reuschal.

WOMEN VOTERS TO HOLD
SCHOOL IN OSHKOSH

Menasha—The League of Women Voters of the Sixth district will hold a citizenship school in the Episcopal Guild hall at Oshkosh Tuesday, July 21. Sessions will be held in the morning and afternoon with a luncheon at 12:30. The speakers will be Mrs. E. E. Hort, Prof. Rice, Madison; Miss Clara Bloom, Neenah; Miss R. C. Fairbanks, Fond du Lac; Mrs. Theodore Youmans, Waukegan; Mrs. Charles Morris, Berlin; Mrs. Helen Brooks, Waubesa-co; and Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, state president of the league. Mrs. Helen K. Stuart of Neenah is general chairman and will be assisted by the presidents of the league including Miss Emilie C. Horn of Menasha.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—Invitations have been issued by Lady Eagles to their husbands and members of the Neenah Aerie of Eagles, for an entertainment to be given Thursday evening in honor of J. B. Schneller, recently elected state president. A program of music and short talks has been arranged.

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hesseleman of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edna Hesseleman, and Horach Christoph, of Waupaca, son of Mrs. Lawrence Christoph of Neenah. The wedding will take place during the fall.

Stage hands, motion picture operators and managers of theatre in Neenah, Menasha and Appleton, held their annual outing Saturday afternoon and evening in the summer cottage of John Herziger, south of Neenah. Dinner was served.

A party of twenty people was entertained Saturday evening by Miss Hannah Rasmussen, Franklin-ave. in honor of her brother, Phillip, of Gary, Ind., Earnest of Atlanta, Ga. and Henry of Des Moines, Ia., who are visiting here. Supper was served after which the evening was spent in cards. Prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jung.

Eighty people were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Baldwin Sunday afternoon and evening in their cottage on the lake shore in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mann and family who leave for Oregon, and Mrs. Wickmann and children who leave Monday for Minneapolis. The time was spent with games.

Announcement was made in Oshkosh Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Gould, of the engagement of their daughter, Ellen, to John R. Veit of New York. Mr. Veit is a graduate of Harvard university. The Goulds are well known in Neenah.

Members of the Neenah Trinity Lutheran and the St. Paul Lutheran Waikar league of Appleton held a picnic Sunday afternoon in Riverside park. A feature of the outing was a baseball game between the two leagues, Appleton winning by a score of 18 to 11. Refreshments were served.

ALDERMEN HOLD
WORDY BATTLE
OVER SCHOOLS

Herziger and Jamison Quarrel Over School Survey
Recommendation

Neenah—A battle of words between Louis Herziger, alderman from the Fifth ward, and Robert Jamison, alderman of the Third ward, wound up the meeting of the city council Saturday evening.

The trouble between the two ward representatives began when Ald. Jamison, member of the planning commission, reported that an impartial survey of Neenah's school system was needed and that the planning commission recommended the hiring of two experts from the state board of education to conduct the survey. Mr. Jamison moved that a survey be conducted.

Mr. Herziger jumped to his feet and exclaimed that "as soon as we get so small that the people of Neenah do not trust us to make such a survey, we who are elected to represent them, and the school board in whose hands the school matters rest, it is time we resign. The school board has not been fair in its dealings with this council in the new school matter and I am getting sick of it. They should show their hand. "Why go out of the city at a cost of $200 to interfere with our school matters? Why has not the public been given information on what is going on? Why refer the matter to the planning commission which is appointed by the mayor before the council has a chance to know what it is all about?" Mr. Herziger referred to a remonstrance signed by 400 citizens of the Third and Fifth wards against the present school program. Mr. Jamison said "that does not amount to anything."

Mr. Herziger took exceptions to this reply and replied to Mr. Jamison "Then those 400 people have nothing to say? A person who will make a statement like that has no license to hold a chair in the council." A vote was taken on authorizing the board to have the survey made as recommended by the planning commission, all voting yes except Herziger and Martians.

There was a discussion of complaints that tourists use the campus free for several days. It is the intention of the city to place the grounds at the disposal of those passing through and wishing to spend a day or night there. It was reported that several parties are making continuous use of it and pitched their tents for the summer and in one case one man stopping there is working in Appleton and returns to Neenah every night to his tent on the camp grounds.

Some of the aldermen were in favor of closing the grounds up while the majority were in favor of regulating it so that real tourists will be welcome to stop for short periods. A vote was taken on a nominal charge should be made. The matter was left with committee on parks and public buildings with power to act.

An ordinance prohibiting the building of new walks in the city before a permanent grade is established for the road on the street where the walk is to be built, was referred to the attorney for his opinion. The council recommended that an ordinance be drawn regulating arrests and fines for those who disregard the traffic signal installed at corner of Wisconsin-ave and Commercial-st and that proper signs be placed where no U turn is allowed and where cars are allowed to park on only one side of narrow streets.

Revised plans for a new brick tool-house and garage for the street commissioner's implements and trucks were displayed and bids were ordered advertised for. The new building will be 37 by 50 feet and to be located on Main-st.

Complaints on street grade from property owners on First-st, between Lincoln and E. N. Water-st were heard and were referred to Board of Public Works for adjustment.

The report of the finance committee showed that the city, since the last meeting of the council, had spent a sum of $4,000.

CAR'S ARRIVAL
STOPS HOLDUP

Man Flees from Filling Station
After Making Demand for Money

Neenah—What was thought to be an attempted holdup occurred Sunday evening in N. Commercial-st filling station of the Standard Oil Co. when a stranger entered and demanded money just as Reuben Echrick was about to close the station for the night.

Mr. Echrick had just finished checking up the day's receipts when the stranger stepped in and demanded $5. Mr. Echrick refused the request at which the man stated that he had to have the money at once as he was in hard lines and a long-way from home. Again Mr. Echrick refused, just as a car drove into the station for fuel. This was thought to have interfered with the holdup plans as the stranger walked out and left the premises.

Police were on watch about the station during the night to intercept any attempt which might be made to gain entrance to the station.

Home Life Is Blamed For Many Crimes

"If you want to reform a criminal, get him before he is 16."

That is the advice of Mrs. Luella R. North, judge of the children's court of Clinton County, N. Y., who has the unique distinction in her state of being the only non-legal judge, the only woman judge of a children's court, and the only woman county judge.

Though she is not a lawyer, there have been no appeals from any of her decisions during her two years of office.

"I believe in prison reform," she says, "and certainly there is much in the system that needs reforming. I have very little confidence in the reform of an individual unless it takes place before he is 16."

"When society realizes it is easier and cheaper to keep criminals from forming than to attempt to reform them after they are made, we shall save much useless effort and many millions of dollars."

In her county she has instituted a system of physical examinations, mental tests, home, school and neighborhood surveys in order to find out all the atmosphere of a case before the child is brought in to court.

"And in the hundreds of cases that have come up before me," she states, "I have not had one which could not be traced either to some physical or mental defect or some condition of life for which adults rather than children were responsible."

"Unless one actually investigates conditions leading up to the delinquency of children, it is difficult for the average conscientious parent to realize how bad they may be, she points out."

"Good parents are apt to judge others by themselves," she says, "and they have no experience with mothers who, in their little girls to men three times their age, to fathers who swear falsely to keep their children from school and put them out to work so they can be idle at home on the children's earnings."

Such cases and many far worse are very familiar to all judges of children's courts. They force you to recognize that crime is a disease and the causes of the disease must be removed before the remedy can be prescribed."

Mrs. North has personally investigated many cases and has done much welfare work for her community.

"There seems to be no work more important than that of giving children the proper start in life and helping those who have been misled," she concluded. "I would rather be the judge of a children's court than a United States senator—or even president."

BETTY BRONSON ADVISES MORNING WALK AS A FAVORED BEAUTIFIER

BY BETTY BRONSON
Motion Picture Actress.

My favorite beauty stunt is my morning walk. When I'm working on the right schedule, I have had a half an hour's jaunt before breakfast and have both before eight o'clock.

It's luxurious to lie in bed and have breakfast brought to you, but it's thrilling to jump out early, have a shower, and work up a good appetite and get a whole day's supply of pep while others sleep.

And here's a secret—when on city streets I walk with dignity and speed, but when I get off the sidewalks, I forget being grown and run like a healthy child. Bacon and eggs and coffee are a Roman feast to me when I return.

Adventures Of The Twins

DOCTOR BILL'S HOSPITAL
"I have a friend," said the Fairy Queen to Nancy and Nick the Twins, "who would like very much to have you visit him."

"Who is it?" asked Nick eagerly.

"The fairy bird doctor," answered the Fairy Queen. "He's called Doctor Bill."

"That's a funny name," laughed Nancy. "Where does he live?"

"Far, far away on an island at sea," said the Fairy Queen. "No one ever saw a sick bird, did he? Well, the reason is that when a bird gets sick he flies away at once to Doctor Bill's hospital and stays there until he gets well. If the bird cannot fly, like the ostrich, for instance, he goes as far as he can and Doctor Bill sends his ferry-boat and takes him the rest of the way."

"How soon may we go?" asked Nick quickly.

"Right away, if you wish," answered the Fairy Queen. "The magic shoes will take you there and bring you back any time you like."

"Hooray!" cried both the Twins. "Good-bye, then. We guess we'll be going."

"Good-bye," said Nancy.

"Good-bye," said the Fairy Queen. "I hope that you will have a very nice time, and learn a lot."

The Twins were lifted up into the air by magic, and whisked away out over the ocean until they came to an island.

In less than no time they found themselves before an odd-looking house set in a garden full of trees. The trees were full of birds of all shapes and sizes—some bandaged, some lame, some singing, some scolding, and some just sitting still doing nothing at all.

On a sign over the door it said, "Doctor Bill's Bird Hospital. Free: Come One—Come All."

"This must be the place," said Nick, lifting the knocker and letting it drop with a loud bang.

"Come in," called a jolly voice. So the Twins lifted up the latch and walked right in as they were told.

"Why, hello there! You're not birds," said a merry little man to whom the jolly voice belonged. "And you certainly don't look sick. Oh, now I know who you are. You're the Twins, aren't you—the ones the Fairy Queen likes so much. I thought so."

He nodded when Nancy explained that they were indeed who they were, and that they had come on a visit. "Make yourselves right at home. Here's a poor fellow who has just arrived, and I'm listening to his troubles. Mister Stork, this is Nancy and Nick. Nancy and Nick, this is Mister Stork."

"How do you do," said the stork, limping over and shaking hands. "You know, my dear friends, Africa! I was just about to tell Doctor Bill here how I got hurt."

"Africa!" exclaimed Nick. "I didn't know you'd go there."

USE UNDER-RIPE FRUIT TO MAKE FINE JELLIES

BY SISTER MARY
When choosing fruit for jelly making keep in mind that the under-ripe rather than the over-ripe fruit is best. The fruit of course, must be fresh and all imperfections removed.

Whether the jelly "jells" or not depends on the pectin present in the fruit juice. All fruits do not contain this substance, but by combining a fruit rich in pectin with one lacking in it the mixture will jelly satisfactorily.

That apples are usually conveniently accessible and are rich in pectin so by adding the strained juice of this fruit to the juice poor in pectin jelly can be made. Or commercial pectin can be used if preferred.

To test for pectin put 1 tablespoon cooled and strained fruit juice in a small glass. Stir well and let stand a few minutes. The alcohol will cause the pectin to form a precipitate in the form of a gelatinous mass. Pectin may, of course, be present in different degrees.

Sugar is added to the fruit juice in proportion to the amount of pectin in the juice. Fruits containing a fair amount of pectin will take 3 1/2 cups of sugar to 1 cup of juice. Green grapes and currants are the only exception to this rule, for these fruits require "cup for cup" of sugar and juice.

Sweet fruits, like strawberries, peaches, cherries and raspberries lack pectin and after the strained juice containing the jelly-making substance is added, need from one-half to two-thirds as much sugar as the combined fruit juices to make a firm jelly.

Current jelly is one of the best jellies to have on hand. It's delicious with roast lamb or mutton, adds a piquant touch to many a dessert and sauce and changes hot biscuits from a necessity to a luxury.

Currents combine well with other fruits.

PLAIN CURRANT JELLY
Wash currants and pick over but do not remove from stems. Put just enough water in a smooth broad saucepan to prevent burning and add fruit. Cover and bring quickly to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer until currants look white.

Strain through a jelly bag without squeezing. Measure the unsqueezed juice and put into a broad saucepan. Bring quickly to the boiling point and slowly stir in as many cups of sugar as there were cups of juice.

Do not let the boiling stop while adding the sugar. Boil rapidly until the syrup sheets from the spoon.

"Only in the winter," said Mister Stork. "In the summer I live on a roof in Holland. But it gets pretty cold, so I fly south across the Mediterranean Sea. But sit down and I'll tell you all about it."

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

"Is this the office of Mr. Prescott?"

"Yes, this is Mrs. Prescott. Sally: Why I didn't recognize your voice."

"Yes, I'm getting along splendidly. Think I'll be able to come home the last of next week, and how glad I'll be to get home again."

"Thank you, dear. It is nice to think that you have missed me. You must come up the minute I get home, dear, and see the new baby."

"Oh! John has just come in, has he? Tell him I want to talk with him."

"Yes, John. It is I, Leslie, speaking. Your voice sounds so strange."

"Yes, I thought I would surprise you. I am sitting up, feeling splendidly. Listen, dear, I want you to get a suite on the Mauretania which is sailing from New York on Wednesday of next week."

"No, I'm not thinking of going to Europe. Mother's going. She wants to join Karl as soon as possible. He has written her a letter asking her to travel with him on the continent. I think it will be just wonderful for her, don't you?"

"Of course, I can get along without her. You must think I'm a real baby. Don't you realize that I am a mother with two great big children on my hands to keep me busy."

"I shall be very lonely, however, but isn't it wonderful for her? She and Karl can travel in that leisurely fashion that mother has always wanted to do. Father, you know, never had time. Karl has always been to mother like a real son. Their tastes are much alike. I think it is an ideal arrangement."

"Yes, the Mauretania sails Wednesday. Be sure and get passage. Mother has already sent to Washington for passports. Senator Blank is going to put them through for her."

"Thank you, dear. You had better come over here not later than Saturday and go from here to New York with mother."

"Oh, I'll be all right. I'm feeling splendidly, you know, and with this great retinue of servants and friends about me, it would be very selfish of me to think that I could not get along."

"Yes, if you can come back this way after your trip to New York, and I am sure that I will be well enough to go home with you."

"No, I don't believe mother wants anything. I'll ask her. If you leave for New York Sunday she will have time to do some shopping Monday and Tuesday."

"Yes, mother is all excited over the idea and comparatively happy since she got the letter."

Or a teaspoonful of syrup poured onto a cold saucer should stiffen and form jelly quickly when the jelly is done. Pour slowly into hot sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

It is wise to make small amounts of jelly at a time and to make the first "drop" extraction of juice into jelly separately.

All the juice should be pressed from the fruit pulp and made into jelly, adding cup for cup of sugar.

"Four-fruit jelly" is a delicious old-fashioned combination jelly that is well worth having on the preserve shelf.

FOUR-FRUIT JELLY
One quart strawberries, 1 quart red raspberries, 1 quart currants, 1 quart cherries measured after straining, sugar.

Wash and hull berries. Save the juice from the cherries that escape while straining. Pick currants from stems. Combine fruit and cherry juice and put into a jelly bag. Press hard and let drip. When all the juice is out measure and use as many cups of sugar as there were cups of juice. Mix juice and sugar and put into smooth, broad saucepan. Bring quickly to the boiling point and boil rapidly until a little tried on a cold saucer jellies. Pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine when cold.

Currents and raspberries make a delicate jelly. Equal amounts of currants and berries are used and cup for cup of sugar and juice.

If sugar is heated before adding it to the boiling juice there is seldom any necessity for skimming the mixture. Heat the sugar in a moderate oven.

When making apple jelly the apples must be cooked in enough water to half cover them. The fruit must be cut into quarters but need not be pared or cored. When the fruit is tender let drip through a jelly bag and measure juice. Use 3 cups of sugar to 4 cups of juice. Since the fruit was cooked in water this water must be boiled out before adding the sugar. Boil the juice from 10 to 20 minutes, depending on the amount of water used, then add the sugar as usual.

A tart under-ripe apple is best for jelly. All imperfections must be cut out before cooking.

Current and apple jelly are typical of the two types of jelly, one in which the fruit requires the addition of little or no water and the other in which the fruit is cooked in water.

Household Hints

SILVER POLISH
Fine whitening makes an excellent silver polish. Moisten it with water and apply with a soft cloth.

FOR MARKING CLOTHES
Use adhesive tape for marking coats, caps, rubbers and children's belongings.

WHY IT'S COARSE
If your cake is too coarse grained this is usually the result of baking in too low an oven or insufficient beating.

VEGETABLES FOR SALAD
Always save cooked peas, carrots, beets, string beans and almost any cold vegetable to combine in salads.

FOR SPONGE CAKE
When baking a sponge cake it is better not to grease the pan but line it with ungreased paper.

TO PREVENT LUMPS
To keep fine cereals from lumping, mix them with cold water instead of sprinkling them dry into boiling water.

FOR THE GRIDDLE
To grease the pancake griddle use a piece of beef-suet on a fork. A soapstone griddle, of course, should never be greased.

MUCH CHEAPER
Macaroni or spaghetti have a food value equivalent to meat if they are cooked with cheese.

Health Hints

HOW YOU CAN RECOGNIZE T. B.

If one has tuberculosis it is exceedingly important that he knows it. Because the only way to cure tuberculosis is to start before the lungs are wasted away.

The best method of determining if one is affected is to have a reputable physician make a thorough examination. Some folk have their lungs examined every year, and it is a good plan.

However, there are symptoms which most any one should be able to detect. These are:

Loss of weight, loss of strength, lack of energy and endurance, feeling tired and run down, especially in the afternoon or evening, poor appetite, indigestion, slight temperature and a cough.

The cough is not always present. But every cough lasting three weeks or more is suspicious.

Night sweats are almost sure signs.

Pleurisy—a sharp pain in the chest, made worse on deep breathing.

He took a black leather book from his inside coat pocket.

"Oh, don't show me figures, please," Glory protested. "I don't understand them and they make my head all fuzzy inside."

"These won't," Dick said. "Look here. I haven't four hundred dollars in my checking account! And I'm paying for some telephone company stock that I'm going to give you for your birthday."

"Oh, don't! I don't want it. Give me an automobile, instead!" Gloria cried, clasping her hands. "I've just got to have an automobile! May and Myra and all the girls have one."

"May and Myra have rich husbands," Dick answered. "You've married a poor man, and you'll have to get used to being a poor man's wife. . . . I'll teach you to drive my roadster, and you can use that to go to your bridge club and lunch parties."

Glory pouted. "I don't want that old ark," she said drearily. "I want a little closed car like the one your mother has."

"Give me time, and I'll be able to get things like that for you," Dick replied. "In another ten or fifteen years."

"Ten or fifteen years?" Glory broke in. "Why, then, if I'm going to be an old woman! I won't care about parties and beautiful clothes, then!"

Dick laughed at her. "You'll be a very attractive woman in your early thirties," he said. "And you'll find that your taste for clothes will be just as strong as it is now."

"In the meantime," he went on looking at her gravely, "you'll have to economize a little. . . . Now, I want you to promise me that you'll never go downtown and run up bills on me again without asking me about it first. . . . Will you promise me that?"

Glory looked him straight in the eye. Slowly she shook her head. "No," she said clearly. "I won't promise you anything."

"I can't say that I'm particularly crazy about having a clothes-horse for a wife," Dick answered picking up his paper. "And there's just one more thing I have to say. . . . I can't be worried to death about bills and expenses at home, and do anything like my best work downtown every day."

Glory's mother down the folds of her black velvet dress thoughtfully.

"Other men seem to buy their wives an occasional dress or two," she remarked with cutting sarcasm. "And I don't notice that they crack under the strain. Good-night. I think I'll go to bed. There's no use trying to sit up and talk to you when you're wound up for one of your sermons on economy. . . . Jim, but I wish I were still earning my $25 a week! Then I wouldn't be jaded to death every time I spend a penny!"

She went upstairs, but not to bed. She spent an hour brushing her hair, polishing her nails, cleaning her face carefully with cold cream and cold water. . . . putting her new clothes away in sachet powder.

Before ten the next morning May Seymour telephoned Glory.

"Hello, Lazy-bones," she said in answer to Glory's sleepy "Hello."

"I've been up for two hours," May went on proudly. "Bathed Mah Jonge already."

"Did you call me up to tell me you'd given your dog a bath?" Glory laughed. "I have something better to tell than that myself."

"I've got a lot of new clothes to show you. Bought 'em yesterday."

"Well, doll yourself up in some of them and we'll go downtown and jazz around a bit," May said. "I'm blue as indigo. . . . and I don't know why. Found a gray hair in my brush, for one thing, this morning. Think of it! . . . What do you suppose I'll look like at forty?"

"Just the way you do now," Glory comforted her. "Brunets don't fade, Ma. And there's a lot of good hair dye on the market when you really need it. . . . What time will you call for me?"

"Oh, about twelve," May said, and ran off.

Glory set about the serious business of dressing.

She had just finished by the time May honked the horn of her car outside the house at noon.

"If anyone telephones for me when I'm gone, please say I'm having lunch at the Coffee Shop restaurant with Mrs. Seymour," Glory told Rang-hild, who was cleaning silver in the pantry. She had a vague idea that Stan might take it into his head to phone her.

"Well, will you kindly take a look at the Fifth Avenue kid?" May exclaimed as Glory opened the door of the automobile and stepped in. That's the best-looking hat I ever saw in my life."

"I'm glad you appreciate it," Dick all but killed me for buying it," Glory sighed. "My goodness, to hear him talk you'd think I'd committed a murder instead of buying myself a few clothes!"

"That's the way with all the men," May sympathized as the car sped through the sunny streets. "I tell you, Glory, a woman has to fight for everything she gets in this world! . . . I've broken John of his everlasting dink-donking about dolls, though. . . . Every time he razzed me for spending money, I turned right round and spent some more!"

Now he's afraid to open his mouth about bills."

May set her painted mouth in a straight firm line.

"What does a girl get out of marriage but a few clothes and parties, and a houseful of furniture to keep dusted, anyway?" she went on after a moment. "Nothing else at all! . . . But a man's marriage just doubles while he, himself was making his business, and a home and wife on the side! Whereas a girl gives up everything when she marries."

Glory thought this over. Surely May hadn't given up everything when she married Dr. John. She certainly had not given up Jim Carew, for instance. They still went around together as they had before May's marriage.

Dr. John was a mystery to Glory. Didn't he care if his attractive young wife and Jim Carew lunched together two or three times a week while he, himself was making his money? . . . Or did he care so much for May that he let her do as she pleased, so long as she was content to be his wife? . . . Glory couldn't figure it out.

May parked her car outside an automobile showroom.

After the two girls had shopped and lunched they decided to go back to Glory's house to look at her new clothes.

Glory was vaguely unhappy. Somehow or other she had had a wild hope that she would see Stanley Warburn in the restaurant where she and May had lunched. When she had dressed that morning, she had been dressing half-unconsciously, for Stan's eyes.

And she had not seen him. "Look at that blue car there in the window, Glory," May indicated a dainty little roadster in the window of the show-room across the side-walk.

Glory looked. The little car was a beauty.

Its dark blue sides shone like satin its trimmings were of polished brass.

"Just for the fun of it, let's go in and price it," Glory said impulsively. They went in.

"That's our new 1925 model," said the natv young salesman, opening the door of the car so that Glory could get into it. "The very best buy on the market. . . . $1800 exactly!"

Glory sat down behind the wheel. The soft springy seats were covered with blue leather. And on the dash was a tiny clock set in dark blue enamel.

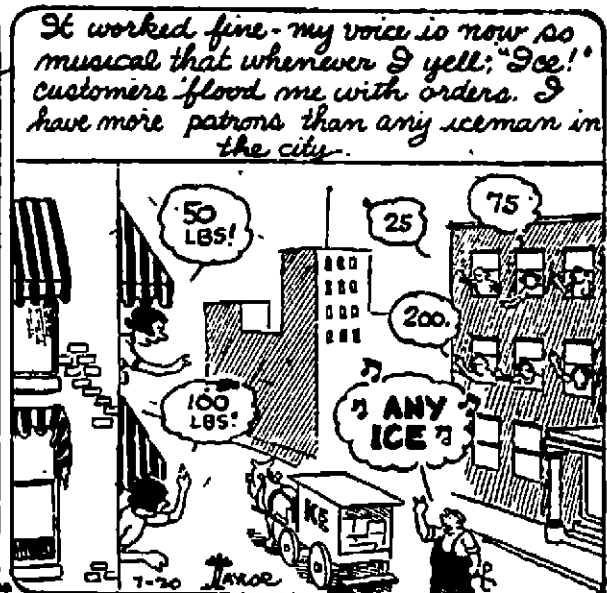

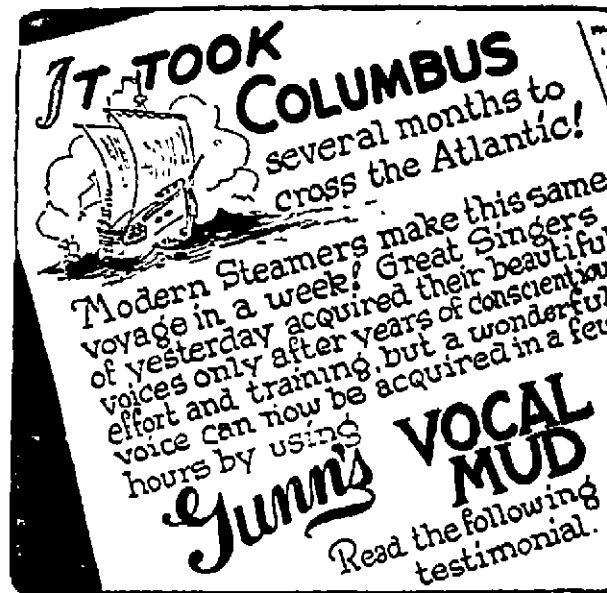

"That car drives as easily as a one-horse shay. It's an ideal machine for a lady," the salesman said, turning to May.

"You certainly should have that car, Glory," May said in her metallic voice. Glory stepped out of the automobile.

MACKMEN KEEP HOLD ON TOP OF LEAGUE LADDER

Simmons' Fourbagger In Ninth Ties Score, Game Goes 15 Innings

Detroit Buries Yanks Under 18
Runs, Clouting New York
Pitchers for 22 Hits

By Associated Press
New York—Major league leaders are entrenched a little better as a result of Sunday's games.

By mauling tactics in St. Louis, the youthful athletes of Connie Mack remained at the top of the American ladder.

Fifteen innings were required before they obtained a verdict of 12 to 8. The Athletics saved the game in the ninth when Simmons hit over the leftfield fence. The Browns rallied twice by tying it with one in the tenth and three in the twelfth, but they were unable to respond a third time in the fifteenth when Galloway walked. Bishop tripled, Rommel singled, Dykes was hit and French doubled.

The Senators' veterans toiled on meanwhile, Dutch Ruether gaining a decision over the Indians at Cleveland, 4 to 2. He kept seven hits well distributed while Joe Judge led the Washington attack, scoring two doubles and a single.

DETROIT 18, NEW YORK 12

Detroit subject the Yanks to a bombardment, 22 hits rolling up a total of 18 runs to 12 collected by the New Yorkers. Pitchers went down like a line of dominoes. Homers were recorded by Harry Heilmann and Lou Gehrig, one for each side.

Rain prevented the scheduled meeting of the enemy Sox, Red and White, at Chicago.

In the National league Pittsburgh gained half a lap on the Giants while beating Baltimore in an exhibition game.

The Giants failed to take advantage of their opportunity and bowed to Cincinnati, 6 to 4. The Reds gathered their entire harvest in the ninth inning, despite the introduction of Jack Scott.

Brooklyn took another day off although players appeared against St. Louis. Little Sherdel left handed his way to a shutout, 4 to 0. For 27 innings the Robins have made only one run.

STARS BEATEN EARLY IN WESTERN AMATEUR GOLF

The first round of the recent western amateur golf tournament proved a tough one for most of the top-notchers. For instance, such highly touted players as Chick Evans, Jimmy Manion, Rudy Knepper, Harrison Johnston, the defending champion, and Dexter Cummings, medalist, were put out right off the bat. It was virtually a clean sweep in so far as the high lights were concerned.

SNODGRASS, WESBROOK NEW TENNIS CHAMPIONS

St. Louis—Harvey Snodgrass and Walter Wesbrook of Los Angeles, the new national clay court tennis double champions, succeeding Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco. The Kinseys won the title last year.

The winning California team surprised by eliminating William T. Tilden II and A. L. Winer, of Philadelphia in straight sets Sunday afternoon. The score was 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

Mexico City—The Spanish Davis

cup team made a clean sweep of the series from the Mexicans by winning the doubles, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

Hartford, Conn.—Miss Agnes Geraghty swam the 300 metre breast stroke in 5:21, a new national record.

Washington's Vets Will Keep Pace, Evans Claims

BY BILLY EVANS
Do you think the veteran Washington pitchers can stand up under the strain?

That question is currently fired at me as Washington and Philadelphia continue their mad scramble for the lead in the American league.

Baseball fans are always with the under dog. Devotees of the national pastime are peculiar critics. The glory in seeing the champions knocked off.

Last season as Washington was making its memorable fight to keep the New York Yankees from winning four straight pennants, and succeeded, the baseball world was pulling for Washington.

Fandom had nothing in particular against the Yanks, except they had won three pennants and there was beginning to be a monotony to world series played in New York.

POPULARITY OF JOHNSON
In addition, Washington had in its lineup, the most popular ball player of all time, Walter Johnson. Everybody was pulling for him to get a chance in a world series.

This year, the Philadelphia Athletics are in much the same position. Washington was last year. The Athletics' tailenders for so long memory fails, are the sensation of the majors.

Connie Mack, a notable figure in the game, nearing the end of his days as an active manager, is a prime favorite with fickle fandom for the American league Derby of 1925.

It seems that the fans in figuring the chances of the Athletics to win the pennant are doing the veteran pitching staff of the Washington club to blow.

SHOULD STAND STRAIN
I fear they are doomed to disappointment on this score. I look for the vets of the Washington staff to

DENNY, CATLIN BACK AS COACHES

Lawrence-Sport Chiefs Sign
Contracts for Coming Year
as Mentors

Athletic Director Arthur C. Denny and Coach Mark Catlin have signed contracts to remain with Lawrence college for another year, according to an announcement by the athletic board of the college. Denny who had been coach at Appleton high school for a number of seasons before taking the directorship at Lawrence has been highly successful in track and basketball since his entrance into college athletics. He is a product of LaCrosse normal and has been with Lawrence for three years.

Mark Catlin returned to Lawrence as football coach after an interval of several years. Last season Lawrence won its seventh championship on the grid under his tutelage, holding the Iowa university squad to a small score in the hardest game ever attempted by a Lawrence team and taking both the Little Five and Little Eight titles. Catlin is an Olympic star having won honors in the high hurdles, and also spent a number of years as coach at the University of Iowa. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

Washington's Vets Will Keep Pace, Evans Claims

BY BILLY EVANS
Do you think the veteran Washington pitchers can stand up under the strain?

That question is currently fired at me as Washington and Philadelphia continue their mad scramble for the lead in the American league.

Baseball fans are always with the under dog. Devotees of the national pastime are peculiar critics. The glory in seeing the champions knocked off.

Last season as Washington was making its memorable fight to keep the New York Yankees from winning four straight pennants, and succeeded, the baseball world was pulling for Washington.

Fandom had nothing in particular against the Yanks, except they had won three pennants and there was beginning to be a monotony to world series played in New York.

POPULARITY OF JOHNSON
In addition, Washington had in its lineup, the most popular ball player of all time, Walter Johnson. Everybody was pulling for him to get a chance in a world series.

This year, the Philadelphia Athletics are in much the same position. Washington was last year. The Athletics' tailenders for so long memory fails, are the sensation of the majors.

Connie Mack, a notable figure in the game, nearing the end of his days as an active manager, is a prime favorite with fickle fandom for the American league Derby of 1925.

It seems that the fans in figuring the chances of the Athletics to win the pennant are doing the veteran pitching staff of the Washington club to blow.

SHOULD STAND STRAIN
I fear they are doomed to disappointment on this score. I look for the vets of the Washington staff to

Clinedinst of Neenah Wins
Special 18-hole Medal
Handicap at Manitowoc

Manitowoc—A. E. C. Bock, a young Sheboygan golfer who is stamped as a coming state champion, added to his growing stock of links laurels on the Lakeside course here Saturday by winning the northeastern Wisconsin title.

In the 27-hole finals Bock won from T. Gould, former football tackle at the University of Wisconsin and now a leading golfer at the Oshkosh Country club. After the first few holes the result was never in doubt. Bock taking an early lead and gradually adding to it so that he finally won by an 8 and 7 count.

Bobby Gittens, registering from the Riverside club of Green Bay, won in Class B from T. M. Otrich, Wisconsin Rapids, 5 and 4. Bobby is a brother of Miss Virginia Gittens, former Wisconsin women's champion. Honors in Class C went to Walker of Green Bay, with Dr. Pratt of Appleton in runnerup position, and in class D, H. R. Bell of Tuscumbia club, Green Lake, beat W. Wittemack, Manitowoc, 5 and 4.

Sam Clineinst of Neenah is northeastern senior champion. He won a special 18-hole medal handicap feature with 57-12-75, two strokes better than J. E. Hamilton of Two Rivers, and six shots better than Fred Schoch of this city.

If distance is less

In putting should one hit boldly for the cup or play safe?

BY JOHNNY FARRELL
Cuban Open Champion.

(1) In putting there are two things to keep in mind. On an approach putt of twenty feet or more you should think more of the distance you have to cover. The distance is really more important than direction on a long putt of this kind, so that playing safe is more important than hitting for the cup.

(2) In a putt under twenty feet
you should hit boldly for the cup,
as there is not much danger of overrunning the distance enough to miss the next shot.

YOUTHFUL MERMAID STAR

FRANCES MEANY

Presenting Miss Frances Meany, 12-year-old swimming star, who hopes to emulate the festive deed of her famous sister, Helen.

Already a strong swimmer, she figures on getting into active competitive ranks within a short time. She's practicing daily at Greenwch, Conn. Her sister, Helen, is the present national fancy high diving champion. She's 20 and took up competition at the age of 12. She was 16 when she competed in her first Olympic matches.

Certainly, Frances has her work cut for her if she would equal the accomplishments of Helen. Frances specializes in the 440 and 880-yard events. She'll be an Olympic champion in 1928, according to swimming experts.

Success Of Schalk And Ruehl Sets New Style

BY BILLY EVANS
When Ray Schalk, veteran backstop of the Chicago White Sox, passes from the majors, he must be credited with setting a new style for catchers.

Schalk, has for all time definitely established the fact that it is not necessary to be a big husky to make good in the majors back of the bat.

Schalk, small of stature as big leaguers go, has already engraved his name in baseball's hall of fame as one of the greatest catchers that ever donned a mask.

"He's too small. He wouldn't be able to stand the strain of regular work in the majors."

That in substance was the opinion of practically every scout that watched Schalk perform back in 1912 with Milwaukee of the American association.

CHICAGO GAMBLER
Chicago needed a catcher badly to take the place of Billy Sullivan who had passed the peak of his game. The Milwaukee club insisted on something like $15,000 for Schalk, a lot of money in those days. Owner Comiskey of the White Sox took a gamble and it proved the best money he ever spent.

When the diminutive Schalk reported to the White Sox, the idea of him catching the 200-pounder, Ed Walsh, famous spitball pitcher, was ridiculed. Schalk stepped right in and made the task look easy.

Then to prove that class rather than bulk makes a great catcher, he proceeded to catch 100 or more games for 11 consecutive seasons.

At the close of the present season he will have smashed by a considerable margin all endurance records for catching in the major leagues.

RUEL ANOTHER EXAMPLE
Now just as Schalk is nearing the end of his days as the premier catcher of the American, if not the majors, Muddy Ruel of Washington enters the scene bidding for the honor.

Last season Ruel worked 147 games for Washington and caught superbly. When the season started he weighed 154, when it closed he weighed 135.

The strain of the race, and the tax on the physique by working every day caused Ruel to lose 19 pounds, but at the finish, while a trifle groggy he was turning in his usual high class work.

No longer do major league scouts pass up promising catchers who are lacking in physique.

The great success that has come to Ray Schalk and Muddy Ruel, has for the present, if not for all time, destroyed the belief that a big league catcher must be a big husky athlete.

What are the rights of a baserunner who has overrun first base relative to returning to that base without liability to be put out? Can the runner turn in fair or foul territory and to his right or left?

When a baserunner overruns first base, his right to return to that base without liability to be put out, depends entirely on whether he made any attempt to run to second.

If the baserunner after overrunning first base, makes no attempt to go to second, he can make his turn in fair or foul territory, either to his left or right and still be entitled to return to first without liability to be put out.

No consideration should be given the manner in which the runner turns in retracing his steps to first base. His status is determined entirely by whether or not he makes a break for second.

The moment the baserunner attempts to go to second before returning to first, he forfeits his exemption from liability to be put out. It is then up to him to either continue on to second or return to first before being touched with the ball.

For some reason the impression for years among many fans is that a baserunner after overrunning first, in returning to that base must turn to his right and in foul territory or make himself liable to be put out.

This of course is erroneous. The runner can return as he sees fit provided he makes no attempt to go to second.

Out of the cellar for the first time since played started in the City Twilight baseball league, the Chair Co. will make a strong effort to rise another notch in the standings at the expense of the strong Bankers Monday afternoon at Jones park. Last week the Chairmakers jumped from last place when the Meyer Press lost both ends of a doubleheader to the second place Triangles.

The Bankers are confident of victory, however. They are the only team in the league able to boast a victory over the leaders, and are making a strong try for second place. A victory Monday night will put them within easy reach of second place, now held by the Triangles by a margin of less than a game, while the Chairmakers would drop back into the basement if they should lose.

Recently the Bankers were cheated out of a victory in the standings, due to an error in the official records. They have won six games and lost three, but the standings showed they had won but five.

BUILD VOLLEYBALL COURT AT HIGH SCHOOL

A volleyball court is being constructed at Appleton high school on the site of the former high school barracks on the west side of the school building. The land has been levelled off and seeded, and as soon as there is a good crop of grass the court will be laid out. The original plan was to build a tennis court in this location, but it was felt that a volleyball court would be more serviceable, for more students can play the game at any time.

By Associated Press
New York—Vincent (Pepper) Martin whose spectacular boxing style carried him to knockout victories in more than 90 of his nearly 800 ring battles in the last eight years, is dead.

The gameness which he displayed in three matches for the junior lightweight crown availed not in his last fight against pneumonia, and the 27-year-old battler died in a Long Island City hospital Sunday.

His friends said that it was his third title effort, his fight with Mike Ballerino two weeks ago, that cost him his life. A few days after this encounter he complained of pains in his chest.

Martin was born in Boston and started his boxing career as a bantamweight in 1917.

STATE OF WISCONSIN In Municipal Court For Outagamie County.
John Kohl, Plaintiff,

vs.
William Glasheen (also known as Willie Glasheen) and Michael Glasheen (also known as Mike Glasheen) and State Bank of Hilbert, Defendants.

By virtue of a Judgement of foreclosure and sale, made and entered in the above entitled action on the thirtieth day of June, A. D. 1924, the undersigned Sheriff of Outagamie County, State of Wisconsin, will sell at public auction, in the Court House, in the City of Appleton, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, on the 27th day of August, A. D. 1925, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of that day, the real estate and mortgaged premises directed by said Judgement to be sold and therein described as follows:

"The Southwest quarter (SW 1/4) of the Northwest quarter (NW 1/4), and the Northwest quarter (NW 1/4), of Section No. Twenty-nine (29) in Township No. Twenty-one (21), North of Range No. Nineteen (19) East, in the County of Outagamie and State of Wisconsin."

Dated this thirteenth day of July A. D. 1925.

Sheriff, Outagamie County, Wis.
ROONEY & GROGAN,
Plaintiffs Attorneys,
Appleton, Wis.
July 13-20-27 Aug. 3-10-17.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
County and State Construction
Bids close Wednesday, July 22, 1925 at 2:00 P. M.

Sealed proposals will be received by the County Highway Committee of Outagamie County, at the office of the County Highway Commissioner, Court House, Appleton, Wis., on Wednesday, July 22, 1925, up to 2:00 P. M. for grading and surfacing a highway described below, according to plans and specifications on file in the office of the County Highway Commissioner, Court House, Appleton, Wis., and the Wisconsin Highway Commission, Nicollet Bldg., Green Bay, Wis.

The complete job consists of grading, draining, and surfacing with a concrete pavement and necessary drainage structures.
Draper Street, Application No. 288, Wisconsin Aid Project No. 3997.
Excavation, earth, 1149 cu. yds.
Concrete Pavement 3343.3 sq. yds.
Joints 720 lin. ft.
160 Dowel bars felt joints 1/2" round, 1 ft. in length.
1500 ft. of metal Parting strip 608 1/2" square deformed bars for parting strip.
160 paraffin tubes.

Bids will be considered on the proposal form on file in the office of the Highway Commission, which will provide for plain and vibrolithic concrete pavement.

Work under this contract will be done in conformity with the 1925 specifications, which have somewhat changed from 1924 specifications. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for a sum equal to at least 5% of the bid, as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into contract with the County Highway Commission and the State Highway Commission, and shall be made payable to the County Treasurer of Outagamie County. The successful bidder must furnish a good and sufficient surety bond in a penal sum equal to the amount of the contract for the faithful performance of the work.

Bidders must be on the qualified list for the type and quantity of work to be bid upon at least two days before the time set for the opening of the bids.

Bidders must state price in writing and total their bids.
All bids will be publicly opened by the County Highway Committee and the Wisconsin Highway Commission and only total of bids will be read.
The Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to accept any bid which may be most advantageous.

TWIN CITY VISITORS NUMEROUS AT CAMPS

Neenah—Both the military camp at Camp Douglas and the Young Women's club camp on Onaway Island, Chain o'Lakes were visited Sunday by large numbers of people from this city. At the former camp a severe rainstorm during the morning threatened to interrupt the program arranged for the day. There was a train from Milwaukee brought thousands of visitors to the reservation during the day while the crowd was added to by auto parties. At Onaway camp the second group of young ladies of Neenah and Menasha is holding an all-day camp, which will close next Friday afternoon.

OSHKOSH COUPLE HURT WHEN CAR IS DITCHED

Neenah—Miss Helen Dore and George Mignard of Oshkosh, were brought to Theda Clark hospital Sunday night suffering from severe cuts which they had suffered when the car in which they were driving ran into the ditch on highway 15 between Neenah and Oshkosh. The accident occurred when Mr. Mignard attempted to pass another car which crowded him in such a manner that he was compelled to take to the ditch. In so doing his car was overturned. Both young people were taken care of in the hospital and returned to their homes Monday morning.

BUILDING PERMITS

Two homes will be added to the construction this year as the result of building permits issued Monday by G. E. Peotter, building inspector. Total estimates amounted to $8,035. The permits were:
Miss M. Hogan, residence at 110 S. Outagamie-st.
Wilbur Engager, garage at 222 E. Winnebago-st.
George E. Dunsinn, residence at 810 W. Third-st.

BOARD OF REVIEW WILL START TASK IN WEEK

The city of assessment review met at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the city hall but adjourned for one more week because the records were not quite completed by A. C. Rule city assessor. His sessions will start at 10 o'clock Monday morning of next week, at which time taxpayers may learn the amount of their assessment and file objections if there is any cause to do so. Mr. Rule is working as fast as time will permit to finish the assessment roll and will have it ready for the board next week.

Begin Vacations

Mail carriers who begin their annual 15 days vacation Tuesday are Paul W. Sellin, Joseph E. Grassberger, and Florian Harriman. Three of the postoffice clerks started their vacations Monday, and will be gone for 15 days. They are Adolph Jahnke, Herbert Christianson, and Frank Schrimpt. Jahnke will spend his vacation at Niagara Falls.

SPEEDER ARRESTED

One speeder was arrested by Carl Radtke, motorcycle policeman, over the weekend. He was Dodge Brush, 1023 W. College-ave, who is charged with traveling 27 miles an hour on S. Oneida-st Sunday evening. His case is to be heard in municipal court as soon as the new judge is appointed.

Audit County Books

Work on the books of Outagamie County was started on Monday by members of the county auditing firm, Reilly, Penner and Benton of Milwaukee. Fred Simmonds, a representative of the company, is in charge of the work.

BIRTHS

A daughter was born Monday morning at St. Elizabeth's hospital to Mr. and Mrs. H. A. DeBauber, 303 E. College-ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nightingale of Green Bay, have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. William J. Butz, 911 N. Ell-st.

DOES ANYONE WANT TO ADOPT INDIAN BABE?

Wanted—A home for a papoose. Among the many duties that fall in the jurisdiction of Fred V. Heinemann, county judge, is that of finding a home for parentless children at times. Recently Judge Heinemann was able to place three, but now he must find a home for a two-months old Oneida Indian.

The child was deserted by his mother recently and now is in the hands of relatives at Seymour.

GOVERNMENT WORK STOPS NAVIGATION

Navigation on the Fox River is at a standstill at the present time because of government is dredging and dynamiting in the canal below De Pere. Where dozens of tugboats could be seen on the river almost daily a few weeks ago, the stream is entirely clear of the boats now. Work on the river canal system has held up navigation for a time during the busy summer months for the last few years, boat owners complain.

Markets

PRICES SWING UPWARD WHEN MARKET CLOSES

New York—The closing was firm. The interruption from profit taking was short lived and prices again swung upward towards the close. Speculators for the rise turned their attention to the mail order and food issues, lifting Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, United Fruit, Fleischmann, to new top prices. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

It's a dull day when President Coolidge doesn't present somebody with something—a medal, a badge, a cup or whatnot. And, not infrequently, even a president theoretically must take his hat off to the recipient of honors. This time it is Walter Johnson and he is shown receiving a diploma as the most valuable player to his club.

Dr. Max Thorek, surgeon-in-chief of the American Hospital, Chicago, is credited with a discovery that may do away with the use of the knife in cases of bone infection, and hence save many lives. His remedy consists of applying a wet compress containing a combination of aluminum and potassium nitrate.

What's a mere eighty years between father and daughter? J. F. Williams of Birmingham, Ala., is 83, and his youngest daughter, Verna Pauline, was born March 25 of this year. His wife is 36, and his eldest son, a former marriage, is 60. The picture shows him with his wife and younger children. Left to right they are Willie May, 5, Verna Pauline and Mr. Williams, Mrs. Williams and Martha Ann, 8.

Major General George C. Rickards will give up his post in Washington as chief of the militia bureau and return to his home in Oil City, Pa., for a rest prior to opening a campaign for election to Congress. He has been identified with the national guard since 1877.

NEW TEACHING PLAN IS CALLED GREAT SUCCESS

Two More Itinerant Teachers May Be Employed in Fox River Valley

Success of the itinerant teaching plan which was started during the last year by the state board of vocational education has been so great in the two sections of the state where it was tried that more traveling teachers will be added to the system, according to George P. Hambrecht, secretary of the state board. The new system seems to be the best means of meeting the problem of the part-time trade apprentice who is required by law to attend school a certain portion of his time. The Fox river valley, home of one of the first two traveling teachers in the country, also will have the honor of employing the third man. F. O. Mader, experienced plumber and teacher, visited Appleton, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Sheboygan weekly the past year. He helped apprentices in the afternoon and conducted night school classes for journeymen plumbers. This fall Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna, the heart of the paper industry, will employ a man in the paper-making trade and cities of the valley may also employ another teacher in the painting and decorating field. Southern Wisconsin cities, including Racine, Kenosha, Janesville, Fond du Lac and Madison, have the first instructor in this work and expect to add a plumbing teacher this year. Wisconsin is the first state in the union to meet the trade-apprentice problem in this way. Mr. Hambrecht said. Although there are but two teachers employed at the present time, the ultimate aim of the board "is to give every apprentice in the state an opportunity to use the time he must spend in the vocational school, in classes in the trade he is following."

Seek Bids For Operating 7 More Air Mail Routes

Bids from private aviation concerns for the operation of seven new air mail routes have been called for by the federal government according to information in the Postal Bulletin for July 15. These new branch air mail lines will be operated for the present by private concerns under the direct supervision of the government. The transcontinental air line which has been in operation for some time between New York and San Francisco are government owned and operated. The proposed lines for which bids have been called are: Boston, Mass. via Hartford, Conn. to New York and return. Chicago, Ill. via Indianapolis, Ind. Louisville, Kentucky, and Nashville, Tenn. to Birmingham, Ala. and return. Chicago, Ill. via La Crosse, Wis. to St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn. and return. Chicago, Ill. via Moline, Ill., St. Joseph, Mo., Kansas City, Mo., Wichita, Kan., and Oklahoma City, Okla. to Dallas and Fort Worth Tex. and return. Elko, Nev. via Boise, Idaho, to Pasco, Wash. and return. Salt Lake City, Utah, via Las Vegas, Nev. to Los Angeles, Calif. and return. Seattle, Wash. via Portland and Ore., Medford, Ore. Sacramento, Calif., San Francisco, Calif., Fresno, Calif., and Bakersfield, Calif. to Los Angeles, Calif. and return.

CHANGE LIGHT SYSTEMS TO GET STATE'S HELP

Changes in the lighting systems of five rural schools of Outagamie county will be made this summer in order to meet the requirements of the state building code, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. The schools are in Districts No. 2 and 5, Bovina, No. 1, Ellington, No. 6, Greenville and No. 6, Joint Center. All of these schools use the old-style cross lighting system. The state requirements call for a left side and rear system.

This one rule had kept the schools out of the first-class rural school rating which allows them state aid. Mr. Meating said. They will be added to the first-class list this fall and state aid then will be available.

NEW VENTILATING SYSTEM IN THEATRE

A new ventilating system was put in operation for the first time Saturday at Fischers Appleton theatre. Two large fans, one located on the south side and the other on the north side of the theatre, draw in a great quantity of fresh air and keep it circulating through the entire building. The south side fan is located on a level with the first balcony and is the most efficient of the two because it is higher than the north side fan which is placed below the stage only about three feet from the front row of seats.

DEML ABLE TO LEAVE GREEN BAY HOSPITAL

George Deml, Appleton, and Frank Zimdars, Milwaukee who have been confined at St. Vincent's hospital in Green Bay recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident on July 5, were expected to return to Appleton Monday. Mrs. Zimdars will remain at the Green Bay hospital for some time, having suffered quite serious injuries. She still suffers considerably from an injured neck. The accident occurred near Green Bay when the Zimdars' car was side-swiped and thrown in the ditch by a passing machine.
